Coal Contract Expected

WASHINGTON (AP) - A new contract providing $2.50 or more a day in higher wages and fringe benefits for 80,000 soft coal miners is expected to be announced today.

The agreement, containing what are described as the biggest gains in history for the miners, will end a strike that began Sept. 30 and spread through virtually the entire industry. Soft coal mines are in 22 states.

The contract reportedly has been approved by top officials of the Bituminous Coal Operators Association and the United Mine Workers union, and needs only the approval of the union's wage policy committee.

The committee's approval appeared certain, since industry and union officials announced a joint news conference for a2 p.m., following a scheduled meeting of the policy committee.

HHH Offers to Share TV

WASHINGTON (AP) - Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey has reserved one hour of prime television time for next Sunday night and has invited Richard M. Nixon andGeorge C. Wallace to share it with him in a three-way debate.

Humphrey made the announcement in telegrams Sunday to Republican Nixon and American Independent Wallace and offered to foot the entire bill.

The Democratic presidential candidate said the time was reserved with the Columbia Broadcasting System from 10 to 11 p.m.

Teachers Strike Again

NEW YORK (AP) - The United Federation of Teachers, saying some instructors had been threatened and terrorized in a predominantly Negro and Puerto Rican school district in Brooklyn, struck the nation's largest public school system today for the third time in six weeks.

The union's leader, Albert Shanker, said "this one could be a long one."

Shanker, who asked for and got a strike vote from his union membership Sunday night, told newsmen today that "acts of terrorism and violence have taken place" at Junior High School 271 in Brooklyn's Ocean Hill-Brownsville community school district.

Cernik Returns to Moscow

Radio Prague said Cernik would "discuss some of the questions which are the result of the Moscow Protocol" between Czechoslovakia and the Soviet Union. This is the Aug. 26 agreement providing for a gradual withdrawal of occupation troops from Czechoslovakia as Soviet demands for reversal of the liberalization trend in Czechoslovakia are met.

Cernik and Czechoslovak Communist party chief Alexander Dubcek committed Czechoslovakia to sign such a treaty in their visit to Moscow Oct. 3-4, but considerable opposition to it has been reported from workers and trade union groups.

Dubcek said in a speech Friday night that the only realistic course for the occupied country is to carry out the Kremlin's conditions.

It is the fourth mission to Moscow by Cernik since the Soviet Union, East Germany, Poland, Hungary and Bulgaria invaded Czechoslovakia Aug. 20-21 to halt the Czechoslovak experiemtn in reforming communism.

Clifford Reviews NATO Trip

WASHINGTON (AP) - Secretary of Defvense Clark M. Clifford says his trip to free Berlin has demonstrated, in the make of deepening concern over Societ intentions, that America would extend "a full measure of assistance" if west Germany were attacked.

Clifford said on return Sunday from a meeting of NATO allies in West Germany that there was a feeling of immediacy and concern over whether the Soviet invasion of Czechoslovakia was an isolated incident or "there is more to come."

The United States would take whatever measures were appropriate to maintain free access to West Berlin, Clifford said in an airport news conference. He said there is no plan to send more U.S. troops to Europe at this time.

Clifford said he was comforted by the state of readiness the North Atlantic Treaty Organization has reached but said "it is not all that we would like it to be."

The defense secretary attended a seven-nation conference in Bonn on laying guidelines for use of tactical nuclear weapons in case of aggression against any NATO member.

Gov. Warren E. Hearnes formally dedicated the Sikeston Regional Diagnostic Clinic before a crowd of about 300 persons Sunday afternoon.

Hearnes Dedicates Diagnostic Clinic

The Sikeston Regional Diagnostic Clinic was formally dedicated Sunday afternoon by Gov. Warren E. Hearnes with the message..."This building symbolizes what is best in all of us."

"It symbolizes a time when Missourians will reach out to the mentally ill and retarded and offer them a strong hand which leads them forward with professional help and personal hope," Hearnes said.

About 300 persons attended the ceremonies conducted on the parking lot in front of the building.

Jack Stapleton Jr., Kennett publisher and member of the State Mental Health Commission, presided. He termed the clinic a memorial to the faith of all mankind. It is more than brick and mortar and stone, he said.

The real purpose of this clinic is to help restrain the tears of the mentally retarded.

"For many families, it offers the first hope they have heard, since they first heard the words mentally retarded," Stapleton said.

This clinic, Hearnes related, represents physical and mental salvation for those who need it desperately. It represents spiritual relief for anguished families, and the most priceless intangible gift society can give an individual...hope.

For years, the only bona fide service offered to the mentally ill and retarded was custodial care, Hearnes continued.

"In Missouri, we have entered that enlightened age of real treatment..not just custodial care," Hearnes declared.

The clinic is one of nine proposed to the state legislature shortly after Hearnes took office as governor. The system has been hailed as a model plan for the nation.

The clinics are authorized for the diagnosis, evaluation and treatment of the mentally retarded of the state. Counseling and follow-up efforts are provided for persons of any age who are thought for any reason to be functioning at a retarded level.

Service is provided on an in-patient, out-patient or day care basis, with no person being denied service because of inability to pay, Hearnes said.

Hearnes noted that in addition to the nine retardation clinics, three intensive treatment centers have been set up at St. Louis, Columbia and Kansas City, all five state mental hospitals are now accredited and the number of local community health centers is growing.

He called it a remarkable achievement to move from mere custodial care to early diagnosis and treatment at the community level in just a few years.

Army, Marines Now Assigning Involuntary Second Viet Tours

WASHINGTON (AP) — For the first time, the Army and Marines are sending thousands of men back for involuntary second tours to Vietnam.

The Army plans to return about 18,000 this year, the Marines some 6,000.

Until this year, the number of nonvolunteers ordered to a second round of war service has amounted only to a trickle.

But this has changed because of the length of the war, the high manpower turnover stemming from the one-year duty tour in Vietnam, and the tight supply of seasoned officers and noncommissioned officers.

Many career servicemen also are becoming eligible for involuntary second tours in Vietnam because they have been away from the war zone for at least two years.

The Army, Marines and Navy had set that as the hoped-for interval between tours, although some exceptions had been made in such scarce skills as helicopter pilots. The Air Force has had no specific interval policy, but has tried to give everybody a turn before tapping men for second tours.

The involuntary second tour trend will affect career servicemen rather than draftees because young men serving twoyear draft hitches may not be returned to the war.

The Army contingent will include 4,950 officers mostly in the captain-major-lieutenant colonel bracket, and 12,900 enlisted men, chiefly senior noncommissioned officers.

The Marine returnees will include 1,000 officers and 5,000 enlisted men.

Between them, the Army and the Marine Corps account for about 80 per cent of the 540,500 American servicemen in Vietnam.

With a 50,000-man-a-month turnover, the Army and Marines have the biggest problem in maintaining a flow of key officers and noncoms to Southeast Asia.

The Air Force this year is sending only about 150 noncommissioned officers back to Vietnam on involuntary second tours.

A spokesman said the Air Force "has just now reached the point where in coming months it will become necessary to return some enlisted specialties for second tours."

Navy said it does not expect to send any officers or enlisted men to Vietnam for involuntary second tours for the rest of this year although last July about 230 Navy seabees who had finished previous war tours earlier than 1966 were ordered to return.

Clayton Firm Buys Grocery

The owners, Mr. and Mrs. Bernard "Butch" Seyer, purchased the contents from Mr. and Mrs. Billy Walker in May, 1966.

The Walkers operated the store for more than 30 years, and have sold both the store building and home next to the store.

Business operations were suspended today in preparation of a liquidation sale of all merchandise.

Mr. and Mrs. Seyer are undecided about future plans.

O. D. Clayton is in charge of the close-sale.

Essex Driver Injured in Car-Truck Crash Here

In a car-truck collision Saturday at 11:05 p.m. at the junction of Highways 60 and 61 at the Sikeston south city limits, the Lee car were eight passengers, but none was injured.

Hall was driving west on Highway 60 when a truck traveling north on Highway 61 ran a stoplight, forcing the car into the median, causing extensive damage to the car, the highway patrol reported.

Hall was taken to Missouri Delta Community Hospital.

Two persons were taken to Missouri Delta Community Hospital, both in serious condition, as the result of a four-vehicle collision Sunday at 4:40 p.m. on Highway 60, one-half mile east of the Cairo bridge.

Injured were Truman Fitzpatrick, 85, Charleston, passenger in a parked pickup truck owned by Herman Laster, 62, Charleston, who also received serious injuries.

Troopers said one car was driven by June Lee, 34, Paris, Tenn., and another car was driven by Chester Hutchison, 18, Columbia, Tenn. The pickup truck, owned by Laster, was parked in a service station driveway.

The Lee car was stopped to make a left turn, when a tractor trailer truck skidded and jackknifed, striking the car, troopers said.

The truck, driven by Dennis Robertson, 21, Fayetteville, Ark., was on the wrong side of the road and sideswiped the Hutchison car, and then went on to collide with the parked Laster truck, the patrol said.

The large truck landed on top of the Lee car, causing the car to catch fire.

In the Lee car were eight passengers, but none was injured.

Sharon Decourley, 29, Fisk passenger in a pickup truck driven by Lloyd Decourley, 33, received injuries to her neck and fingers in a two-car collision Saturday at 7:55 p.m. on Highway 62 east of Poplar Bluff.

The pickup was stopped to make a turn when it was struck in the rear by a car driven by Linda Eagle, 16, Qulin, troopers said.

Three persons were injured in a two-car accident Sunday at 3:20 p.m. on Highway 80, seven miles east of East Prairie.

A car driven by Fannie Averett, 36, Dexter, went out of control, sideswiped a car driven by Woodrow Norman, 27, Immokalee, Fla., bounced off and struck a bridge, troopers said.

Fannie Bridgman, 72, East Prairie, passenger in the Averett car, received fractured ribs and a fractured ankle. Another passenger, Kimberly Averett, 2, Dexter, received cuts on her forehead.

Both were taken to Missouri Delta Community Hospital.

Teddy Clay, 37, Alton, Ill., received possible broken ribs in an accident Sunday at 4 p.m. on Interstate 55 at the Benton overpass.

He told the state patrol that a gust of wind blew his Volkswagon into the median,

Investigate Four Breakins

Police investigated four reported breakins today:

A pair of binoculars and $27 in cash were reported taken from the REA Electrical Cooperative, Highway 62 East.

A portable television set had been taken to a window. Apparently the burglars were frighten off before they got the television out, Jim Stephenson, manager, said.

A complete inventory has not been taken yet. Entry was gained t rough a broken rear window, police reported. Office desks had been ransacked.

About $5 in change was reported missing from the E. C. Robinson Lumber Co., 100 South Prairie, early today. No merchandise was found to be missing in a pa tial inventory.

Investigating police reported entry was gained by breaking a window in he rear door and unlocking it.

The Baber Feed & Seed Co., 318 West North St., and the Sikeston Gin Co. onWest North St. were entered by vandals and ransacked, police reported today. Nothing was found to be missing, but seven dozen eggs were destroyed in Baber's, and a tractor was damaged.

The REA Express Office at the Fisco Railroad station was broken into Saturday night or early Sunday. Nothing was found to be missing, police reported.

In other activity, Eugene Hammock, 953 Lake, was charged at 6:10 p.m. Saturday with driving while intoxicated.

Charles Curtner, Route 3, was charged at 7 p.m. Saturday with displaying a dangerous and deadly weapon.

William B. Guess, 73, 218 William, was treated and released Sunday at the Sikeston hospital for injuries suffered in a three-truck accident at 8:35 a.m. Saturday at Main and Helen streets.

A pickup truck driven by Commodore R. York, 62, Route Y, collided with a pickup truck driven by Joe E. Beck, 38, 947 Vernon. Beck's vehicle, southbound on Main, struck the side of York's truck as he attempted to cross Helen St. York's truck was spun by the impact. It struck a stopped panel truck driven by Guess, police reported.

Astronauts Send First Telecast From Apollo 7

SPACE CENTER, HOUSTON (AP) — Flashing a hand-printed sign saying "Keep Those Cards and Letters Coming," three smiling Apollo 7 astronauts today performed the first live television show from inside a manned U.S. speaceship.

The crew turned on the television camera at 10:44 a.m. (EDT) as Apollo 7 sped over the southern United States. Pictures at first were snowy, and Slayton reported the signal was "too weak to read."

After the 4½-pound camera warmed up for about two minutes, however, the astronauts could plainly be seen moving inside Apollo 7. The system required a scan converter to reproduce the pictures.

The first handwritten sign the Apollo crew held up before the camera said, "Hello from the lovely Apollo room high atop everything." Viewers saw Air Force Maj. Donn F. Eisele, laughing, standing upright in his white coveralls in the center of the cabin, Navy Capt. Walter M. Schirra Jr. on his couch to the viewer's right.

Later, Schirra held up another sign which said, "Keep Those Cards and Letters Coming in Folks."

Holding the camera at the end of its 12-foot cord, one of the astronauts then aimed it out the window to test its ability to see features on earth during the approximately eight-minute transmission.

Walter Cunningham, the civilian member of the crew, was shown only briefly, moving at the left of the screen. It was he who turned the camera on.

Clouds and earth below could be seen, including the TexasLouisiana coastline. One view also appeared to show the Gulf Coast of Florida as Apollo 7 sped over that state to begin its 46th orbit as the televised show ended.

Schirra, who refused to switch on the camera during the first scheduled telecast Saturday, originally criticized the camera as being an "inferior product." But project officials today said the picture was far clearer than what occurred in previous tests on earth.

The next transmission was scheduled Tuesday.

Mrs. Josephine Schirra, wife of the Apollo 7 commander, viewed the telecast from inside Mission Control.

"Look at Eisele, a nice shot, looks straight up," Slayton radioed to the pilots. "He's moving and he's really quite clear."

"You forgot to shave this morning, Eisele," ground controllers quipped.

Shortly before the start of the television show, the three astronauts got a "go" to spend at least another day in space, despite several problems that included a momentary power loss which triggered flashing spaceship warning lights high over the Red Sea.

The power dropout, described by one of the three orbiting astronauts as "a very traumatic experience," will be avoided in the future by changing switch positions on several fans which overloaded electrical circuits, causing the momentary blackout.

Flight director Gene Kranz said the momentary electrical power loss, which occurred shortly before 1 a.m. EDT, apparently was "attributal to a cyclic load" caused by too many fans or heaters going on simultaneously. He said this theory was supported by the fact th[illegible]he problem did not re[illegible] when the reset switch [illegible]s thrown.

Jaycees to Participate in Election Returns System

Details of the network election service were explained to Junior Chamber of Commerce members from 22 clubs in Southeast Missouri at a Region 8 meeting Sunday in Sikeston.

The Missouri Jaycees are responsible for reporting returns from the Missouri precincts to the television network election service as polls close across the state on Nov. 5.

About 3,000 Jaycees will be involved in the project.

The early results to be seen on television Nov. 5 will be coming through Jaycees stationed at each polling place. They will call early results into a network election service computer center.

The Sikeston vote will be used in a sampling of about 60 communities to make early projections of how the state vote is going.

The election system was explained in workshop sessions Sunday following social activities Saturday night.

Investigate Four Breakins

Police investigated four reported breakins today:

A portable television set had been taken to a window. Apparently the burglars were frighten off before they got the television out, Jim Stephenson, manager, said.

A complete inventory has not been taken yet. Entry was gained t rough a broken rear window, police reported. Office desks had been ransacked.

About $5 in change was reported missing from the E. C. Robinson Lumber Co., 100 South Prairie, early today. No merchandise was found to be missing in a pa tial inventory.

Investigating police reported entry was gained by breaking a window in he rear door and unlocking it.

The Baber Feed & Seed Co., 318 West North St., and the Sikeston Gin Co. onWest North St. were entered by vandals and ransacked, police reported today. Nothing was found to be missing, but seven dozen eggs were destroyed in Baber's, and a tractor was damaged.

The REA Express Office at the Fisco Railroad station was broken into Saturday night or early Sunday. Nothing was found to be missing, police reported.

In other activity, Eugene Hammock, 953 Lake, was charged at 6:10 p.m. Saturday with driving while intoxicated.

Charles Curtner, Route 3, was charged at 7 p.m. Saturday with displaying a dangerous and deadly weapon.

William B. Guess, 73, 218 William, was treated and released Sunday at the Sikeston hospital for injuries suffered in a three-truck accident at 8:35 a.m. Saturday at Main and Helen streets.

A pickup truck driven by Commodore R. York, 62, Route Y, collided with a pickup truck driven by Joe E. Beck, 38, 947 Vernon. Beck's vehicle, southbound on Main, struck the side of York's truck as he attempted to cross Helen St. York's truck was spun by the impact. It struck a stopped panel truck driven by Guess, police reported.

Astronauts Send First Telecast From Apollo 7

SPACE CENTER, HOUSTON (AP) — Flashing a hand-printed sign saying "Keep Those Cards and Letters Coming," three smiling Apollo 7 astronauts today performed the first live television show from inside a manned U.S. speaceship.

The crew turned on the television camera at 10:44 a.m. (EDT) as Apollo 7 sped over the southern United States. Pictures at first were snowy, and Slayton reported the signal was "too weak to read."

After the 4½-pound camera warmed up for about two minutes, however, the astronauts could plainly be seen moving inside Apollo 7. The system required a scan converter to reproduce the pictures.

The first handwritten sign the Apollo crew held up before the camera said, "Hello from the lovely Apollo room high atop everything." Viewers saw Air Force Maj. Donn F. Eisele, laughing, standing upright in his white coveralls in the center of the cabin, Navy Capt. Walter M. Schirra Jr. on his couch to the viewer's right.

Later, Schirra held up another sign which said, "Keep Those Cards and Letters Coming in Folks."

Holding the camera at the end of its 12-foot cord, one of the astronauts then aimed it out the window to test its ability to see features on earth during the approximately eight-minute transmission.

Clouds and earth below could be seen, including the TexasLouisiana coastline. One view also appeared to show the Gulf Coast of Florida as Apollo 7 sped over that state to begin its 46th orbit as the televised show ended.

Schirra, who refused to switch on the camera during the first scheduled telecast Saturday, originally criticized the camera as being an "inferior product." But project officials today said the picture was far clearer than what occurred in previous tests on earth.

The next transmission was scheduled Tuesday.

Mrs. Josephine Schirra, wife of the Apollo 7 commander, viewed the telecast from inside Mission Control.

"Look at Eisele, a nice shot, looks straight up," Slayton radioed to the pilots. "He's moving and he's really quite clear."

"You forgot to shave this morning, Eisele," ground controllers quipped.

Shortly before the start of the television show, the three astronauts got a "go" to spend at least another day in space, despite several problems that included a momentary power loss which triggered flashing spaceship warning lights high over the Red Sea.

The power dropout, described by one of the three orbiting astronauts as "a very traumatic experience," will be avoided in the future by changing switch positions on several fans which overloaded electrical circuits, causing the momentary blackout.

Flight director Gene Kranz said the momentary electrical power loss, which occurred shortly before 1 a.m. EDT, apparently was "attributal to a cyclic load" caused by too many fans or heaters going on simultaneously. He said this theory was supported by the fact th[illegible]e problem did not re[illegible] when the reset switch [illegible]n brown.

Jaycees to Participate in Election Returns System

Details of the network election service were explained to Junior Chamber of Commerce members from 22 clubs in Southeast Missouri at a Region 8 meeting Sunday in Sikeston.

The Missouri Jaycees are responsible for reporting returns from the Missouri precincts to the television network election service as polls close across the state on Nov. 5.

About 3,000 Jaycees will be involved in the project.

The early results to be seen on television Nov. 5 will be coming through Jaycees stationed at each polling place. They will call early results into a network election service computer center.

The Sikeston vote will be used in a sampling of about 60 communities to make early projections of how the state vote is going.

The election system was explained in workshop sessions Sunday following social activities Saturday night.

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!

Robert F. McNamara made positive contributions as secretary of defense but his stubborn insistence on adopting the Fll sometimes called the TfX, jet fighter plane was an expensive, collosal blunder.

The Fll should be scrapped.

The armed services always opposed adoption of the swinging craft. The argument of thrift, which McNamara used to justify his faith in the plane, looked good on paper.

In practice it has not worked out.

Even Sen. Stuart Symington, a former air force secretary, now says junking the plane should be considered seriously in view of its record of nine crashes.

The ill fated craft has not only cost the United States billions of dollars and lives but its failure threatens to make this country a second rate air power.

McNamara's goal was to build a plane suitable both for the air force and the navy.

He has failed. Neither services branch ever was happy about the choice.

The navy discovered the plane was too heavy to land on aircraft carriers and cancelled purchases.

The air force has grounded the plane temporarily as investigators seek the cause of the most recent fatal crash.

Many tests and changes have failed to make the plane safe and efficient for use in combat.

The plane has even failed to fly properly under any condition.

McNamara may have been ahead of the times.

some day the principle, which guided the construction of the plane, may prove to be valid.

Today the Fll should be sent back to the flight laboratories and research centers where it belongs.

The armed services should be given better fighter planes which are built on more convential lines.

THAT 'KAFKAESQUE' INCIDENT

Franz Kafka, a Prague - born writer of fiction dealing with the dilemmas of modern man, was what critics have called an author of the absurd. Things which you know couldn't happen happened anyway in his stories.

That explains why Inside Labor columnist Victor Riesel this week referred to a deplorable situation in the Office of Economic Opportunity as a "Kafkaesque incident." It was too absurd to be true. But it happened.

To summarize, 84 world leaders were invited by New York City to visit an OEO- funded community council headquarters. There they were told that tours of child care centers, other poverty offices, clinics and counseling centers had been canceled. The 400-poverty counselors and workers, it seems, were out demonstrating against the police.

Mr. Riesel pointed out, to the OEO first and then in print, that these poverty war leaders are paid $15,000 to $20,000 a year, their assistants $11,000 to $14,000, and workers receive $175 to $225 a week.

How, he asked OEO, could such paid employes shut down all their centers of operations and go out into the streets to oppose police?

Mr. Riesel got to answer from OEO after waiting a week. Probably because no one in the Washington headquarters of OEO knows what to say. The incident is so absurd that it defies explanation. "Kafkaesque" is the perfect word for it.

But the incident should not be ignored. Congress should be busy even now finding out how well - paid OEO workers could do this, and also finding a way to stop it.

POINTS UP NEED FOR PASSAGE OF BENNETT—BLACKBURN BILLS

The teacher's strike is only the latest in which demands for compulsory unionism were found to underlie the most bitter labor disputes including teachers, sanitation workers, clerks and public workers of all kinds.

It points up the need for passage of the Bennett — Blackburn bills now before Congress - and equivalent legislation in every state.

The Bennett - Blackburn bills would protect the right of 3,000,000 federal employees to join or to refrain from joining employee unions and would set a strong pattern for states in establishing policy for public employees.

The irresponsible - and illegal - actions taken by the UFT underscores the urgency for protecting every public and private worker in his right to join or not to join a union without losing his job.

THE FORGOTTEN MAN—OR OLD HAT

Since his acceptance speech in Miami Beach, Richard Nixon has been dwelling on "the forgotten man." It may be effective, but it is hardly original.

Barry Goldwater based part of his 1964 strategy on the notion that the average, hard working, law abiding American was being neglected and yearned for a shift to the political right. Franklin D. Roosevelt swept to victory amid the 1932 depression saying: "These unhappy times call for...faith once more in the forgotten man." He was appealing to the middle class and laboring elements allegedly overlooked by Republican Administrations.

The exact origin of the phrase probably is not known, but it was first popularized in 1883 by William Graham Sumner, professor of Political and Moral Science at Yale University. His words could evoke a foot stomping response at some political gatherings today. "Wealth," he said, "comes only from production, and all that the wrangling grabbers, loafers and jobbers get to deal with comes from somebody's toil and sacrifice. Who, then, is he who provides it all? The forgotten man...the clean, quiet, virtuous, domestic citizen, who pays his debts and his taxes and is never heard of out of his little circle."

Is there a forgotten man, especially in this day when nearly every social or economic interest — including even the poor — is in some way organized as a pressure group? There are plenty of unhappy people, nursing a sense of disgust, or fear or lack of control. But are they truly forgotten?

Perhaps Will Rogers put such slogans in proper perspective after Franklin Roosevelt named a Cabinet that included Miss Frances Perkins. Said the humorist: "They have found the forgotten man. There's nine of him and one woman."

THE FORGOTTEN MAN—
1968 STYLE

Now with candidates, like June, "bustin' out all over," we hear a great deal of oratory in the presidential sweepstakes—we even hear a little logic.

One reference that punctuated the bombast and bunting in the 1930's was the "forgotten man." Nobody was ever quite sure who the forgotten man was, but he gradually assumed the status of a woebegone individual, suffering at the hands of a tyrannical employer. So, in behalf of the "forgotten man," all sorts of legislation was enacted, some of it good, much of it bad.

Today we have a new "forgotten man." He's been crowded out of the political spectrum by appeals to the packaged vote of organized labor, the disadvantaged, the impoverished, the indolent indigent, and even the indolent indigent who prefer to remain indolent.

And who is this "forgotten man of 1968?" Well, aside from the fighting troops in Viet Nam, he is the law abiding, respectable, hardworking individual, whether he be executive or artisan. He is the man who watches his earnings siphoned away to support global aid programs of the most frivolous type. He is the man who is allowed a $600 yearly tax deduction to raise and educate his child while the unwed mother on relief gets many times that amount in welfare checks to support her burgeoning brood.

He is the man who takes pride in his home, in his environment, his friends and his neighbors. He is the same forgotten man who is a "bigot", a "racist", and a veritable beast if he has any personal preference as to the buyer of his dwelling. He is all of these things if he belongs to a club that selects members on the basis of their acceptability in the light of standards approved by the members themselves. He is the man who spends hours filling out forms, questionnaires and other invasions of his privacy in the form of goveernmental inquiries. He is the same man who contributes to his own community in time and effort—and in money.

It is this same man, or his son, who volunteers for military service or answers a draft summons without complaint, then dies valiantly in a war his country won't let him win for fear of offending "world opinion." He sees his tax dollars used to support the United Nations, then reads of some tirade against his country by a costumed tribal chieftain from some Afro-Asian mini-nation free-loading at that same U.N.

No census has been taken to establish the number of forgotten men in this day and age. Perhaps, however, the candidates will find out in Novemeber. Whether farmer, junior executive, union member, corporate head or laborer, there must be more than one forgotten man who has asked nothing of his government other than its respect for his basic rights and its compliance with the Constitution. A man who believes that any person should be able to walk the streets of any city, free from attack and mortal hurt. He doesn't need a label. He's just an average, honest, God-fearing citizen and, we hope a voter.

Girls are still more eager than boys to go to the altar. A survey of teen-agers found that 42 per cent of the girls, but only 14 per cent of the boys, expected to be married by their 21st birthday. Some 23 per cent of the boys only 13 per cent of the girls expressed doubt about ever getting married.

Speaking of weddings, here's how the desert Bedouins prepare a marital feast: Cooked eggs are stuffed in fish, the fish in cooked chickens, the chickens in a roasted sheep, and the sheep in a whole roasted camel. What a crazy, mixed-up canape:

Ever wonder why a bird can fly and you can't? Well, besides their feathers, birds have another advantage. They have air sacs in their bones that connect with their lungs. When birds take a deep breath it helps make their bodies lighter.

You may hold a flea in disdain, but he has a low opinion of you, too. Most of the 1,750 varieties of fleas would rather dine on dogs or rats than people. If, size considered, you had the hopping power of a flea, you'd be able to leap a distance of almost two football fields.

Quotable notables: "Laugh at yourself first, before anybody else can."—Elsa Maxwell, quoting the death-bed advice given by her father.

New on the market: A fresh complexion aid for milady called "sea cream." It's made from an essence of seaweed, mosses and ocean minerals. But you don't dive into it—you just rub it on.

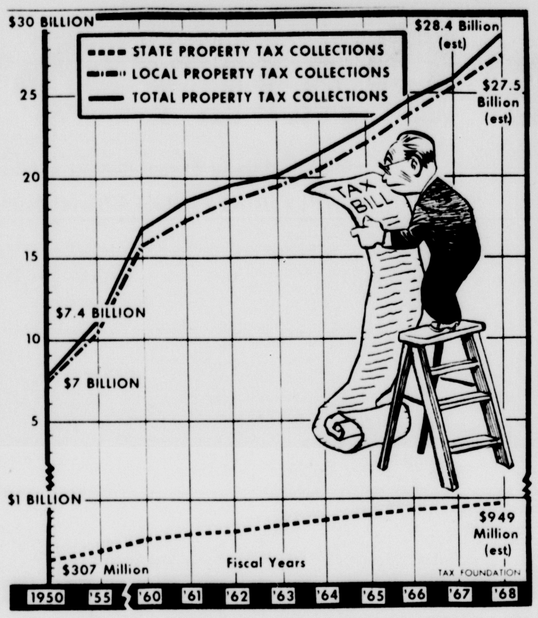

Drawing big crowds is no guarantee of victory for a political candidate. In the 1896 presidential race, William Jennings Bryan traveled 18,000 miles through 27 states and was heard by more than five million people. But William McKinley, who conducted a "front porch campaign" at his home in Canton, O., won by more than half a million votes.

High cost of health: Americans spent $33.1 billion in 1967 on medical services—up 10 per cent in a single year.

We tend to think of epidemics as characteristic of the Dark Ages, but the global influenza of 1918 was one of the most costly in history. It killed 21 million people throughout the world, more than 500,000 in the United States.

Worth remembering: "It is very hard to fight temptation. There is always the nagging thought—it may not come again."

It was Oscar Wilde who observed, "Nowadays people know the price of everything and the value of nothing."

Property taxes, which some experts proposed abolishing 20 years ago, produced a whopping $28 billion in revenues in the year ended June 30, quadruple the total in 1950. Despite many shortcomings, property taxes are the mainstay of local financing.

TRAFFIC ACCIDENT COSTS INCREASING

The nation's estimated economic loss from traffic accidents in June was up more than $15 million over June of 1967, the Insurance Information Institute reported.

The economic loss for June was estimated at $1,113,840,000 by the Institute. It attributed the rise over the same month last year to increases of 8 per cent in traffic deaths and 4.4 per cent in accidents. Traffic injuries for the month were approximately the same as for June a year ago.

The 4,820 highway deaths reported for June by the National Safety Council compare with 4,460 for the same month in 1967.

The economic loss for the first six months of 1968 stands at $6,405,312,000, in increase of $619 million above the loss figure of $5,786,350,000 for the same period last year.

The rise ineconomic loss during the first half of 1968 was due to increases of 6 per cent in traffic accidents and 4.5 per cent in injuries over the same period of 1967.

The Institute said that if the trend set during the first six months of this year continues during the second half, 1968 will set a new high record in traffic accident experience--there would be more accidents, more injuries and more deaths recorded than in any previous year.

FIFTH AMENDMENT SECRETARY?

There are many matters crying for early attention in the Congress this year.. But none, in our opinion, is as urgent as that business of the Secretary of State's refusing to testify in public before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. The Committee has asked Mr. Rusk to testify on our Vietnam policy in public session, and the Secretary, with White House backing, has refused to do so In retaliation, the Committee has withheld an invitation to Mr. Rusk to testify in closed-door hearings. Further, the Committee has broken precedent this year by declining to invite the Secretary of State to review our global foreign pokicy situation at the opening of the Congressional session. That has been the practice for many years. This year, the Committee ignored Mr. Rusk and invited the head of the CIA, Richard L. Helms, to supply the briefing on foreign policy.

In the corridors at the State Department one hears that the personal feud between Secretary Rusk and the Chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee of the Senate, William J. Fulbright, is the cause of the impasse. But that cannot explain the total contempt of the Executive Branch for the Congress. The people of Arkansas elected William J. Fulbright, and his seniority entitles him to chair the Foreign Relations Committee. A great many Americans may not like Mr. Fulbright's attitude on the matter of the Vietnam war. Obviously Mr. Johnson and Mr. Rusk do not. But he is the Chairman of that important Committee, and it is the function of said Committee to provide "advice and consent" on foreign policy. Its role is established by the Constitution. And it behooves the Senate of the United States to see that the Committee performs that role.

Back in the days of FDR's "New Deal" the Congress solved an impasse of this kind by cutting off funds to an executive deartment. And precisely such a step is indicated by Secretary Rusk's high-handed refusal to answer the call of the Senate Committee. Let the Congress decline to appropriate a single red penny for the Department of State unless and until the Secretary of State has appeared before the Committee and responded to its inquiries. In these troubled times, a Fifth Amendment Secretary of State is the last thing we need.

Denied funds for his Department, we think Mr. Rusk would quickly appear, or quit. He should do one or the other forthwith.

TV CLEANUP FOR REAL?

The television industry has turned into one giant dry-cleaning shop in efforts to rid its product of the deep-dyed stains of violence.

Even as scissors snip scenes and cameras reshoot episodes, some voices are heard to murmur that this is but a passing attitude and mayhem unabridged will shortly be back on the home tubes.

A public accustomed to being vicariously burned, shot, gassed, hanged, stabbed, buried alive, garroted and you-name-it 365 evenings a year can scarcely be blamed for viewing the announced cleanup with jaundiced eyes.

It remains for television to prove whether this is merely a temporary rein on content or a genuine revision of intent in "entertaining" its vast audience.

H.L. Hunt Says

PUBLIC OPINION AND CONSUMERS

Consumers, the people who purchase goods and services, can express public opinion by their buying habits. When a housewife goes to the market, a man to a clothing shop, a family to an automobile dealer to pick out the car they wish to purchase, they are all stating their opinions in a very direct and forceful manner. And the seller who does not take heed of their opinions is not likely prosper.

One meaning of this is that the individual who is concerned about the threat to freedom in America today can use his buying power to express his favorable opinion of any business that injects a note of patriotism into his advertising. It is worthwhile for a person who feels strongly about freedom to go o a little extra trouble, if that is necessary, to give his patronage to the businessman who is not afraid to let his patriotism show.

It is regrettably true that too many of the people who make decisions about advertising have been duped into believing that patriotism in advertising is not a good thing, that it is "controversial" and may lose customers. Businessmen who have tried, however, know better.

The newspaper headlines may go to the protesters and rioters, but despite all the noise they make these elements are not representative of the great American public. Their opinions in the market place count for far less than the opinions of those who want America to live as the land of the free. The wise businessman will seek the favorable opinion of the majority.HLH

DREW PEARSON AND JACK ANDERSON SAY: Nixon law firm appears to be calling the shots; Pepsi and Warner-Lambert pressured frim into taking Nixon; If President he'll favor clients' interesests

WASHINGTON--The deeper you dig into Richard Nixon's lucrative law practice, the more it looks as if his Wall Street law firm is calling the shots in his Presidential campaign.

Not only have his law partners virtually taken over his campaign, but he has been issuing campaign statements that coincide remarkably with the interests of his clients. The pattern has been disturbing enough to raise questions about the influence his law firm will have on U.S. policy if he is elected President.

By baring his personal finances, Nixon has acknowledged that the voters have a right to know about his financial ties. Every Presidential candidate should release his income tax returns, list of all law clients and identify his sources of income. For the voters are entitled to all the facts, not just the cold figures from an auditor's statement.

Nixon listed his net worth as $515,830 but placed only a $45,000 value on his equity in the law firm. Our own investigation indicates that he takes in around $250,000 a year from his law practice. Not long ago he boasted to a friend that his income tax alone is now double the $35,000 salary he used to collect as Vice President.

Nixon joined the respected old Wall Street firm of mudge, Stern Baldwin and Todd after losing the California governorship in 1962. A senior partnership was arranged for Nixon by two of the law firm's biggest clients, Pepsi-Cola and Warner-Lambert Pharmaceutical.

Discreet, backstage pressure was brought on the law firm in Nixon's behalf by Donald Kendall, Pepsi's President, and Elmer Bobst, Warner-Lambert's Board chairman. Shortly thereafter, the firm became Nixon, Mudge, Rose, Guthrie, Alexander and Mitchell.

BIG CLIENTS FIGHT CONTROLS

Both Pepsi-Cola and Warner-Lambert, in their 1968 reports to stockholders, complained about the controls that President Johnson has imposed upon overseas investments. These are necessary to fight French President Charles De Gaulle's raid on U.S. gold reserves.

"These controls," declared the Pepsi report, "can only aggravate the U.S. balance payment problem long range,; therefore it is our hope that all possible steps will be taken to lift them at an early date." Warner-Lambert also expressed the hope that the controls would be "temporary."

Nixon has now pledged that, if he ever reaches the White House, he will grant his two favorite clients their wish. In a confidential campaign letter to a select business executives, he promised to repeal the curbs on overseas business investments.

Nixon sent another secret letter to 2,000 leaders of the securities industry, denouncing the Democrats for their "heavy-handed bureaucratic regulatory schemes." His law firm has represented Pepsi-Cola, Warner-Lambert, El Paso Natural Gas and several other clients before the securities and exchange commission, which regulates the securities industry.

The letter also proclaimed Nixon's opposition to the sec's crackdown on mutual funds. Not only does his law firm represent mutual funds, but Nixon until his presidential announcement was a director of four such funds--investors mutual, investors selective fund, investors stock fund and investors variable payment fund.

Earlier in Houston, the GOP Presidential candidate promised to perpetuate the 27 1/2 per cent oil depletion allowance, which has saved the oil companies billions in taxes. His law firm, it turns out, also represents oil and gas interests.

Not long ago, Nixon made a personal appearance at the interior department to plead for an import quota for one oil client, John Shaheen, who would like to ship 30,000 barrels a day into the country from his refinery at come-by-chance, Newfoundland.

OIL PROFITS

In private conversations, Nixon has also urged that commercial companies should be permitted to help develop the federal oil shale lands in Colorado and Utah. These oil shale reserves, owned by the taxpayers, have a potential worth estimated over $600 billion--enough to pay off the entire national debt and still have enough left over to reduce taxes.

Among the applicants for special leases in the heart of the richest federal oil shale beds are three other Nixon clients--Wolf Joint Venture, Rock School Joint Venture and Ridge Minerals Venture.

It isn't known whether Nixon's law partners have helped to prepare his campaign statements boosting their clients' interests. It is known, however, that the Nixon campaign is largely run by his law partners.

His campaign manager, John Mitchell, is a senior partner. The second in power is another law partner Leonard Garment, who previously had been an active Democrat. Still another law partner, Thomas Evans, heads the United Citizens for Nixon volunteer organization.

Nixon's backroom braintrust, which advises him on campaign strategy, includes another partner, Franklin Lincoln, Jr. and when Vice Presidential candidate Spiro Agnew had foot-in-mouth trouble, a law partner, John Sears, was hastily assigned to the Agnew campaign. Others from the Nixon firm are actively trying to elect their senior partner to the White House.

Nixon owes the voters a full report on his law practice, so they can judge for themselves whether he would use the Presidency to advance his clients' special interests.

NOTE: In an earlier column, we reported Nixon's campaign statement against legislation that would permit larger trucks on the highways. His law firm has collected $838,380 since 1965 from railroads, which have been fighting the trucking bill.

No one in the leadership really cares. Few have any place to go, as long as Jimmy Hoffa remains general president -- which won't be for long.

General Vice President Fitzsimmons has a leg ailment. This has interfered with his golf and conferences with his new ally, Walter Reuther.

The other brethren are less concerned with electing a president of the U.S. than with ridding themselves of their own president, who now is succeeding only in sinking them into new quagmires of trouble.

Except for the soft shoe shuffling of Hoffa's attorney to end from the Supreme Court with appeal after appeal, all was quiet until the shots which cut down Bob Kennedy.

Within a few hours, some of "Jimmy's" friends were offering $100,000 to anyone who would come forth, now that the haunter was dead, and proffer evidence that Hoffa really is innocent.

There were no takers. But that should not have surprised Hoffa. There were also no takers of the previous million dollar offer.

Instead, the Justice Dept's Criminal Division and new grand juries began a series of probes into efforts to bribe witnesses. Some of those "friends" with all that cash may find themselves in Hoffa's imprisoned government - in - exile.

When the cash — which reflected Hoffa's basic sense of jugularism, namely, that you can buy anyone anywhere — remained frozen, Hoffa hit on a new tactic.

His "friends" began making the Senate rounds, seeking aid to pressure thy White House and the Bureau of Prisons to get the bantam shifted from the cold winters of Lewisburg (Pa.) penitentiary to a model prison farm in sunny Florida. There wre no takers.

Hoffa continued to stuff mattresses and take communal showers, during which he shuddered as though he were being doused with sulphuric acid. And he awaited the results of his appeal to the Seventh Circuit Court of Appeals in Chicago.

This was his last hope for reprieve from his five -year sentence (which will follow two four - year terms he's now serving) for conspiring to defraud the Teamsters' central states' pension fund of $1.7 million and for mishandling $20 million.

On Aug. 15, the court rejected his appeal. He began pressuring his old lieutenants to get tough. They didn't They've had it.

They learned from some of the best judicial brains in Washington that the Supreme Court, unless it broke all tradition, would not reverse itself on a case it had once considered, then had remanded to a District Court, which then again had ruled against Hoffa, which in turn had been supported by a Federal Court of Appeals.

Nonetheless, on Sept. 26, Hoffa again appealed to the Supreme Court. But the Teamsters' high command had decided that, for Jimmy Hoffa, the ball game was over.

On Sept. 27, ignoring Hoffa's heated warnings, they endorsed Hubert Humphrey. They're forgetting the "champ."

They are in alliance with Walter Reuther. This means that he will lend them the rhetoric and sociological imagery they need.

Their general counsel, Ed. Bennett Williams, for some time now an intimate of President Johnson, will guide them quite expertly and brilliantly out of the legal swamp into which they followed "Jimmy."

If they're going to get tough, they'll slug it out with air pollution, central city problems and the difficulties of strangulated traffic.

On the political front -- Hoffa or no Hoffa -- they're decided not to get tough with anyone. In Chicago, they let it be known that they have fully considered the virtues of "all three major candidates."

They're not picking on George Wallace. One of the elders reckoned the Alabaman will get 30 or 40 per cent of the teamsters' vote. They're not picking on Dick Nixon. They're prefect gamblers. So they never take a chance. They decided to let bygones be bygones with the national Democratic Party. So, quietly, they endorsed Hubert Humphrey.

And then the let word go out that the last strike has been called on James Riddle Hoffa. He'll be in prison until 1974, at least.

That's it. Sic transit gloria money in a little black bag.

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!

Robert F. McNamara made positive contributions as secretary of defense but his stubborn insistence on adopting the Fll sometimes called the TfX, jet fighter plane was an expensive, collosal blunder.

The Fll should be scrapped.

The armed services always opposed adoption of the swinging craft. The argument of thrift, which McNamara used to justify his faith in the plane, looked good on paper.

In practice it has not worked out.

Even Sen. Stuart Symington, a former air force secretary, now says junking the plane should be considered seriously in view of its record of nine crashes.

The ill fated craft has not only cost the United States billions of dollars and lives but its failure threatens to make this country a second rate air power.

McNamara's goal was to build a plane suitable both for the air force and the navy.

He has failed. Neither services branch ever was happy about the choice.

The navy discovered the plane was too heavy to land on aircraft carriers and cancelled purchases.

The air force has grounded the plane temporarily as investigators seek the cause of the most recent fatal crash.

Many tests and changes have failed to make the plane safe and efficient for use in combat.

The plane has even failed to fly properly under any condition.

McNamara may have been ahead of the times.

some day the principle, which guided the construction of the plane, may prove to be valid.

Today the Fll should be sent back to the flight laboratories and research centers where it belongs.

The armed services should be given better fighter planes which are built on more convential lines.

THAT 'KAFKAESQUE' INCIDENT

Franz Kafka, a Prague - born writer of fiction dealing with the dilemmas of modern man, was what critics have called an author of the absurd. Things which you know couldn't happen happened anyway in his stories.

That explains why Inside Labor colmunist Victor Riesel this week referred to a deplorable situation in the Office of Economic Opportunity as a "Kafkaesque incident." It was too absurd to be true. But it happened.

To summarize, 84 world leaders were invited by New York City to visit an OEO- funded community council headquarters. There they were told that tours of child care centers, other poverty offices, clinics and counseling centers had been canceled. The 400-poverty counselors and workers, it seems, were out demonstrating against the police.

Mr. Riesel pointed out, to the OEO first and then in print, that these poverty war leaders are paid $15,000 to $20,000 a year, their assistants $11,000 to $14,000, and workers receive $175 to $225 a week.

How, he asked OEO, could such paid employes shut down all their centers of operations and go out into the streets to oppose police?

Mr. Riesel got to answer from OEO after waiting a week. Probably because no one in the Washington headquarters of OEO knows what to say. The incident is so absurd that it defies explanation. "Kafkaesque" is the perfect word for it.

But the incident should not be ignored. Congress should be busy even now finding out how well - paid OEO workers could do this, and also finding a way to stop it.

POINTS UP NEED FOR PASSAGE OF BENNETT—BLACKBURN BILLS

The teacher's strike is only the latest in which demands for compulsory unionism were found to underlie the most bitter labor disputes including teachers, sanitation workers, clerks and public workers of all kinds.

It points up the need for passage of the Bennett — Blackburn bills now before Congress - and equivalent legislation in every state.

The Bennett - Blackburn bills would protect the right of 3,000,000 federal employees to join or to refrain from joining employee unions and would set a strong pattern for states in establishing policy for public employees.

The irresponsible - and illegal - actions taken by the UFT underscores the urgency for protecting every public and private worker in his right to join or not to join a union without losing his job.

THE FORGOTTEN MAN— OR OLD HAT

Since his acceptance speech in Miami Beach, Richard Nixon has been dwelling on "the forgotten man." It may be effective, but it is hardly original.

Barry Goldwater based part of his 1964 strategy on the notion that the average, hard working, law abiding American was being neglected and yearned for a shift to the political right. Franklin D. Roosevelt swept to victory amid the 1932 depression saying: "These unhappy times call for...faith once more in the forgotten man." He was appealing to the middle class and laboring elements allegedly overlooked by Republican Administrations.

The exact origin of the phrase probably is not known, but it was first popularized in 1883 by William Graham Sumner, professor of Political and Moral Science at Yale University. His words could evoke a foot stomping response at some political gatherings today. "Wealth," he said, "comes only from production, and all that the wrangling grabbers, loafers and jobbers get to deal with comes from somebody's toil and sacrifice. Who, then, is he who provides it all? The forgotten man...the clean, quiet, virtuous, domestic citizen, who pays his debts and his taxes and is never heard of out of his little circle."

Is there a forgotten man, especially in this day when nearly every social or economic interest — including even the poor — is in some way organized as a pressure group? There are plenty of unhappy people, nursing a sense of disgust, or fear or lack of control. But are they truly forgotten?

Perhaps Will Rogers put such slogans in proper perspective after Franklin Roosevelt named a Cabinet that included Miss Frances Perkins. Said the humorist: "They have found the forgotten man. There's nine of him and one woman."

THE FORGOTTEN MAN— 1968 STYLE

Now with candidates, like June, "bustin' out all over," we hear a great deal of oratory in the presidential sweepstakes—we even hear a little logic.

One reference that punctuated the bombast and bunting in the 1930's was the "forgotten man." Nobody was ever quite sure who the forgotten man was, but he gradually assumed the status of a woebegone individual, suffering at the hands of a tyrannical employer. So, in behalf of the "forgotten man," all sorts of legislation was enacted, some of it good, much of it bad.

Today we have a new "forgotten man." He's been crowded out of the political spectrum by appeals to the packaged vote of organized labor, the disadvantaged, the impoverished, the indolent indigent, and even the indolent indigent who prefer to remain indolent.

And who is this "forgotten man of 1968?" Well, aside from the fighting troops in Viet Nam, he is the law abiding, respectable, hardworking individual, whether he be executive or artisan. He is the man who watches his earnings siphoned away to support global aid programs of the most frivolous type. He is the man who is allowed a $600 yearly tax deduction to raise and educate his child while the unwed mother on relief gets many times that amount in welfare checks to support her burgeoning brood.

He is the man who takes pride in his home, in his environment, his friends and his neighbors. He is the same forgotten man who is a "bigot", a "racist", and a veritable beast if he has any personal preference as to the buyer of his dwelling. He is all of these things if he belongs to a club that selects members on the basis of their acceptability in the light of standards approved by the members themselves. He is the man who spends hours filling out forms, questionnaires and other invasions of his privacy in the form of goveernmental inquiries. He is the same man who contributes to his own community in time and effort—and in money.

It is this same man, or his son, who volunteers for military service or answers a draft summons without complaint, then dies valiantly in a war his country won't let him win for fear of offending "world opinion." He sees his tax dollars used to support the United Nations, then reads of some tirade against his country by a costumed tribal chieftain from some Afro-Asian mini-nation free-loading at that same U.N.

No census has been taken to establish the number of forgotten men in this day and age. Perhaps, however, the candidates will find out in Novemeber. Whether farmer, junior executive, union member, corporate head or laborer, there must be more than one forgotten man who has asked nothing of his government other than its respect for his basic rights and its compliance with the Constitution. A man who believes that any person should be able to walk the streets of any city, free from attack and mortal hurt. He doesn't need a label. He's just an average, honest, God-fearing citizen and, we hope a voter.

Girls are still more eager than boys to go to the altar. A survey of teen-agers found that 42 per cent of the girls, but only 14 per cent of the boys, expected to be married by their 21st birthday. Some 23 per cent of the boys—only 13 per cent of the girls—expressed doubt about ever getting married.

Speaking of weddings, here's how the desert Bedouins prepare a marital feast: Cooked eggs are stuffed in fish, the fish in cooked chickens, the chickens in a roasted sheep, and the sheep in a whole roasted camel. What a crazy, mixed-up canape:

Ever wonder why a bird can fly and you can't? Well, besides their feathers, birds have another advantage. They have air sacs in their bones that connect with their lungs. When birds take a deep breath it helps make their bodies lighter.

You may hold a flea in disdain, but he has a low opinion of you, too. Most of the 1,750 varieties of fleas would rather dine on dogs or rats than people. If, size considered, you had the hopping power of a flea, you'd be able to leap a distance of almost two football fields.

Quotable notables: "Laugh at yourself first, before anybody else can."—Elsa Maxwell, quoting the death-bed advice given by her father.

New on the market: A fresh complexion aid for milady called "sea cream." It's made from an essence of seaweed, mosses and ocean minerals. But you don't dive into it—you just rub it on.

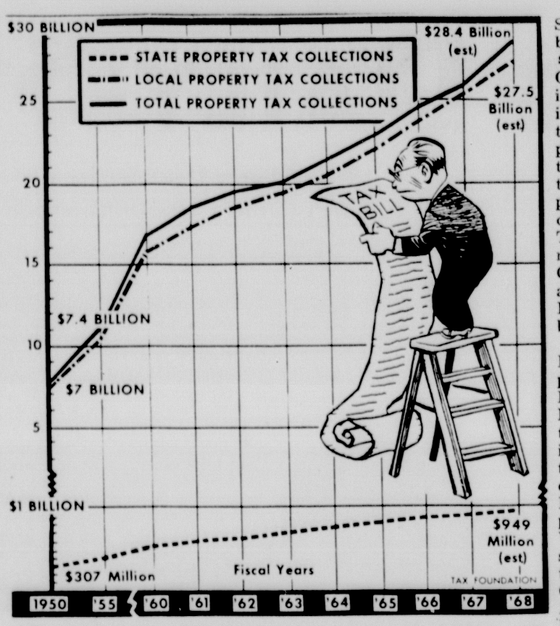

Drawing big crowds is no guarantee of victory for a political candidate. In the 1896 presidential race, William Jennings Bryan traveled 18,000 miles through 27 states and was heard by more than five million people. But William McKinley, who conducted a "front porch campaign" at his home in Canton, O., won by more than half a million votes.

High cost of health: Americans spent $33.1 billion in 1967 on medical services—up 10 per cent in a single year.

We tend to think of epidemics as characteristic of the Dark Ages, but the global influenza of 1918 was one of the most costly in history. It killed 21 million people throughout the world, more than 500,000 in the United States.

Worth remembering: "It is very hard to fight temptation. There is always the nagging thought—it may not come again."

It was Oscar Wilde who observed, "Nowadays people know the price of everything and the value of nothing."

Property taxes, which some experts proposed abolishing 20 years ago, produced a whopping $28 billion in revenues in the year ended June 30, quadruple the total in 1950. Despite many shortcomings, property taxes are the mainstay of local financing.

TRAFFIC ACCIDENT COSTS INCREASING

The nation's estimated economic loss from traffic accidents in June was up more than $15 million over June of 1967, the Insurance Information Institute reported.

The economic loss for June was estimated at $1,113,840,000 by the Institute. It attributed the rise over the same month last year to increases of 8 per cent in traffic deaths and 4.4 per cent in accidents. Traffic injuries for the month were approximately the same as for June a year ago.

The 4,820 highway deaths reported for June by the National Safety Council compare with 4,460 for the same month in 1967.

The economic loss for the first six months of 1968 stands at $6,405,312,000, in increase of $619 million above the loss figure of $5,786,350,000 for the same period last year.

The rise ineconomic loss during the first half of 1968 was due to increases of 6 per cent in traffic accidents and 4.5 per cent in injuries over the same period of 1967.

The Institute said that if the trend set during the first six months of this year continues during the second half, 1968 will set a new high record in traffic accident experience--there would be more accidents, more injuries and more deaths recorded than in any previous year.

FIFTH AMENDMENT SECRETARY?

There are many matters crying for early attention in the Congress this year.. But none, in our opinion, is as urgent as that business of the Secretary of State's refusing to testify in public before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. The Committee has asked Mr. Rusk to testify on our Vietnam policy in public session, and the Secretary, with White House backing, has refused to do so In retaliation, the Committee has withheld an invitation to Mr. Rusk to testify in closed-door hearings. Further, the Committee has broken precedent this year by declining to invite the Secretary of State to review our global foreign pokicy situation at the opening of the Congressional session. That has been the practice for many years. This year, the Committee ignored Mr. Rusk and invited the head of the CIA, Richard L. Helms, to supply the briefing on foreign policy.

In the corridors at the State Department one hears that the personal feud between Secretary Rusk and the Chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee of the Senate, William J. Fulbright, is the cause of the impasse. But that cannot explain the total contempt of the Executive Branch for the Congress. The people of Arkansas elected William J. Fulbright, and his seniority entitles him to chair the Foreign Relations Committee. A great many Americans may not like Mr. Fulbright's attitude on the matter of the Vietnam war. Obviously Mr. Johnson and Mr. Rusk do not. But he is the Chairman of that important Committee, and it is the function of said Committee to provide "advice and consent" on foreign policy. Its role is established by the Constitution. And it behooves the Senate of the United States to see that the Committee performs that role.

Back in the days of FDR's "New Deal" the Congress solved an impasse of this kind by cutting off funds to an executive deartment. And precisely such a step is indicated by Secretary Rusk's high-handed refusal to answer the call of the Senate Committee. Let the Congress decline to appropriate a single red penny for the Department of State unless and until the Secretary of State has appeared before the Committee and responded to its inquiries. In these troubled times, a Fifth Amendment Secretary of State is the last thing we need.

Denied funds for his Department, we think Mr. Rusk would quickly appear, or quit. He should do one or the other forthwith.

TV CLEANUP FOR REAL?

The television industry has turned into one giant dry-cleaning shop in efforts to rid its product of the deep-dyed stains of violence.

Even as scissors snip scenes and cameras reshoot episodes, some voices are heard to murmur that this is but a passing attitude and mayhem will shortly be back on the home tubes.

A public accustomed to being vicariously burned, shot, gassed, hanged, stabbed, buried alive, garroted and you-name-it 365 evenings a year can scarcely be blamed for viewing the announced cleanup with jaundiced eyes.

It remains for television to prove whether this is merely a temporary rein on content or a genuine revision of intent in "entertaining" its vast audience.

PUBLIC OPINION AND CONSUMERS

Consumers, the people who purchase goods and services, can express public opinion by their buying habits. When a housewife goes to the market, a man to a clothing shop, a family to an automobile dealer to pick out the car they wish to purchase, they are all stating their opinions in a very direct and forceful manner. And the seller who does not take heed of their opinions is not likely prosper.

One meaning of this is that the individual who is concerned about the threat to freedom in America today can use his buying power to express his favorable opinion of any business that injects a note of patriotism into his advertising. It is worthwhile for a person who feels strongly about freedom to go o a little extra trouble, if that is necessary, to give his patronage to the businessman who is not afraid to let his patriotism show.

It is regrettably true that too many of the people who make decisions about advertising have been duped into believing that patriotism in advertising is not a good thing, that it is "controversial" and may lose customers. Businessmen who have tried, however, know better.

The newspaper headlines may go to the protesters and rioters, but despite all the noise they make these elements are not representative of the great American public. Their opinions in the market place count for far less than the opinions of those who want America to live as the land of the free. The wise businessman will seek the favorable opinion of the majority.HLH

DREW PEARSON AND JACK ANDERSON SAY: Nixon law firm appears to be calling the shots; Pepsi and Warner-Lambert pressured frim into taking Nixon; If President he'll favor clients' interesests

WASHINGTON--The deeper you dig into Richard Nixon's lucrative law practice, the more it looks as if his Wall Street law firm is calling the shots in his Presidential campaign.

Not only have his law partners virtually taken over his campaign, but he has been issuing campaign statements that coincide remarkably with the interests of his clients. The pattern has been disturbing enough to raise questions about the influence his law firm will have on U.S. policy if he is elected President.

By baring his personal finances, Nixon has acknowledged that the voters have a right to know about his financial ties. Every Presidential candidate should release his income tax returns, list of all law clients and identify his sources of income. For the voters are entitled to all the facts, not just the cold figures from an auditor's statement.

Nixon listed his net worth as $515,830 but placed only a $45,000 value on his equity in the law firm. Our own investigation indicates that he takes in around $250,000 a year from his law practice. Not long ago he boasted to a friend that his income tax alone is now double the $35,000 salary he used to collect as Vice President.

Nixon joined the respected old Wall Street firm of mudge, Stern Baldwin and Todd after losing the California governorship in 1962. A senior partnership was arranged for Nixon by two of the law firm's biggest clients, Pepsi-Cola and Warner- Lambert Pharmaceutical.

Discreet, backstage pressure was brought on the law firm in Nixon's behalf by Donald Kendall, Pepsi's President, and Elmer Bobst, Warner-Lambert's Board chairman. Shortly thereafter, the firm became Nixon, Mudge, Rose, Guthrie, Alexander and Mitchell.

BIG CLIENTS FIGHT CONTROLS

Both Pepsi-Cola and Warner-Lambert, in their 1968 reports to stockholders, complained about the controls that President Johnson has imposed upon overseas investments. These are necessary to fight French President Charles De Gaulle's raid on U.S. gold reserves.

"These controls," declared the Pepsi report, "can only aggravate the U.S. balance payment problem long range,; therefore it is our hope that all possible steps will be taken to lift them at an early date." Warner-Lambert also expressed the hope that the controls would be "temporary."

Nixon has now pledged that, if he ever reaches the White House, he will grant his two favorite clients their wish. In a confidential campaign letter to a select business executives, he promised to repeal the curbs on overseas business investments.

Nixon sent another secret letter to 2,000 leaders of the securities industry, denouncing the Democrats for their "heavy-handed bureaucratic regulatory schemes." His law firm has represented Pepsi-Cola, Warner-Lambert, El Paso Natural Gas and several other clients before the securities and exchange commission, which regulates the securities industry.

The letter also proclaimed Nixon's opposition to the sec's crackdown on mutual funds. Not only does his law firm represent mutual funds, but Nixon until his presidential announcement was a director of four such funds--investors mutual, investors selective fund, investors stock fund and investors variable payment fund.

Earlier in Houston, the GOP Presidential candidate promised to perpetuate the 27 1/2 per cent oil depletion allowance, which has saved the oil companies billions in taxes. His law firm, it turns out, also represents oil and gas interests.

Not long ago, Nixon made a personal appearance at the interior department to plead for an import quota for one oil client, John Shaheen, who would like to ship 30,000 barrels a day into the country from his refinery at come-by-chance, Newfoundland.

OIL PROFITS

In private conversations, Nixon has also urged that commercial companies should be permitted to help develop the federal oil shale lands in Colorado and Utah. These oil shale reserves, owned by the taxpayers, have a potential worth estimated over $600 billion--enough to pay off the entire national debt and still have enough left over to reduce taxes.

Among the applicants for special leases in the heart of the richest federal oil shale beds are three other Nixon clients--Wolf Joint Venture, Rock School Joint Venture and Ridge Minerals Venture.

It isn't known whether Nixon's law partners have helped to prepare his campaign statements boosting their clients' interests. It is known, however, that the Nixon campaign is largely run by his law partners.

His campaign manager, John Mitchell, is a senior partner. The second in power is another law partner Leonard Garment, who previously had been an active Democrat. Still another law partner, Thomas Evans, heads the United Citizens for Nixon volunteer organization.

Nixon's backroom braintrust, which advises him on campaign strategy, includes another partner, Franklin Lincoln, Jr. and when Vice Presidential candidate Spiro Agnew had foot-in-mouth trouble, a law partner, John Sears, was hastily assigned to the Agnew campaign. Others from the Nixon firm are actively trying to elect their senior partner to the White House.

Nixon owes the voters a full report on his law practice, so they can judge for themselves whether he would use the Presidency to advance his clients' special interests.

NOTE: In an earlier column, we reported Nixon's campaign statement against legislation that would permit larger trucks on the highways. His law firm has collected $838,380 since 1965 from railroads, which have been fighting the trucking bill.

DAR District Meeting

CAPE GIRARDEAU - The Southeast Missouri district meeting of the Daughters of the American Revolution was held in Cape Girardeau Oct. 1 with 63 members attending. Eight chapters sent representatives to meet with the state officers.

Mrs. Helen Land Jones of the Kings Highway Chapter district director, presided and introduced the officers.

Mrs. Raymond T. Finks of Jefferson City, state regent, gave the principal talk. She stressed the importance of working with young people, and the financial assistance needed by DAR and other approved schools.

Other state officers spoke on the duties of their positions and how chapter officers could do their work more efficiently.

The regents reported on the achievements of the past year and plans for the future.

Those attending from Sikeston were Mrs. Jones, Mrs. A.J. Renner, Mrs. William Huff and Miss Margaret Harris.

The Kings Highway Chapter and the Henry Whitener Chapter of Fredericktown were the only two of the eight Southeast chapters to receive the Gold Honor Award.

In 1967, the 3,188 aircraft owned by scheduled United States airlines flew more than 132 million passengers.

2 Guest Speakers

The 9th District president of Missouri Federation Women's Club, Mrs. Ray McGee of Piedmont, was a special guest of the Sikeston Women's Club at its tea last Tuesday in the public library.

Mrs. McGee presented the high lights of the meeting held in Boston in June. She also extended an invitation to all club members to attend the 9th District convention in Dexter tomorrow.

Mrs. Kathryn Kennard of Portageville spoke on famous women of Missouri.

Mrs. E. F. Weidemann, accompanied by Mrs. Helen Jones at the piano, sang the club's theme, "Let There Be Peace."

The business meeting was conducted by the president, Mrs. Pauline Foley.

The hostesses were Mrs. William Proffer, Mrs. Earl Allen, Mrs. Lyan Schroff, Mrs. W. G. Funk and Mrs. Leo Schade.

Guests from the Charleston club were Mrs. O. T. Dalton, Mrs. Mattie Henry, Mrs. Lena Burke, Mrs. Susie Byrne, Mrs. Helen Brade, Mrs. Cassie Giltz, Mrs. Dessie Chron, Mrs. Evangebill Hurst, Mrs. Maude Gilmore and Mrs. Myrtle McFadden.

CHICAGO (AP) — Great Britain's General Post Office will be the location for an on-line computer system linked to four research centers in London.

The manufacturer (Burroughs) said here that the system is being installed this summer at telecommunications headquarters in Gresham Street. It will serve nearly 3,000 scientists and engineers working on projects ranging from calculating satellite orbits for trans-Atlantic communications to working on properties of a new micro circuit.

Nine terminals connected on-line with the computer will also provide instant printed replies to instructions in each of these offices. The system will automatically log and calculate computer time being shared by scientists and engineers.

Of Local Interest

Adrian Young, 100 W. Gladys, has been transferred to Baptist hospital in Memphis, from Missouri Delta Community hospital. His room number is 486 Union.

A "breathtaking" record was set in 1942 by a Middletown, Conn., Wesleyan University junior. According to "Time Capsule 1942," a paperback book that records events for that year, Eugene J. Frechette Jr. "took three breaths of oxygen, then sat purple-faced, breathless, like-to-bust, for 20 minutes 5 seconds."

Packers Stumbling; Lose Third Game, LA Rams Wins

By ED SCHUYLER JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

Bart Starr hurt himself and the Green Bay Packers by warming up the regular way. Maybe he should have tried Sonny Jurgensen's method.

Starr pulled a muscle in his passing arm while warming up Sunday and then stood on the sidelines as the Packers lost 16-14 to the unbeaten Los Angeles Rams for their third defeat in five National Football League games.

Jurgensen, weakened by a severe cold, slept in a storage room for two hours before the game, then went out and threw two touchdown passes in leading the Washington Redskins to a 16-13 victory over Pittsburgh, 0-5.

The victory lifted the Redskins above the .500 mark at 3-2 and moved them to within a game of the New York Giants in the Capital Division. The Giants, 4-1, fell out of a firstplace tie with Dallas by being upset 24-21 by Atlanta, 1-4, while the Cowboys were trouncing Philadelphia, 0-5, 34-14.

Los Angeles, by boosting its record to 5-0, kept pace in the Coastal Division with the Baltimore Colts who smashed San Francisco 42-14.

In other NFL action, Detroit moved into a tie for the Central Division lead at 3-2 with Minnesota by downing Chicago, 1-4, 28-10 as Minnesota was upset by New Orleans 20-17 and St. Louis beat Cleveland 27-21.

New Orleans, Cleveland and St. Louis share the Century Division lead with 2-3 records.

In the American Football League Sunday, Denver upset the New York Jets 21-13, San Diego surprised Oakland 23-14, Kansas City topped Cincinnati 13-3 and Houston blanked Boston 16-0. Buffalo and Miami tied 14-14 Saturday night.

Bruce Gossett's 27-yard field goal, his third of the game, came four plays after Packer corner back Herb Adderley was called for interference against Jack Snow, giving the Rams a first down on the Green Bay 25.

One of three interceptions against Zeke Bratkowski, Starr's replacement set up Los Angeles' touchdown in the third period. Willie Ellison scored it from the one. Donnie Anderson ran four yards for a Packer score in the second period and Tom Brown put Green Bay ahead 14-13 by returning a punt 52 yards.

Jurgensen threw a 17-yard scoring strike to Jerry Smith in the opening period, and, then with the Redskins trailing Pittsburgh 10-9 in the third period, he escaped being tackled in the end zone to launch a 96-yard drive which he climaxed with a 49-yard pass to Smith.

Atlanta got its upset of the Giants when Lee Calland intercepted a Fran Tarkenton pass in the end zone with 1:16 left. The pass came on a third-andone foot situation on the Atlanta 12. Tarkenton did throw three touchdown passes but they could not offset three Atlanta scores on runs and a field goal by Bob Etter.

Don Meredith threw two touchdown passes as Dallas marched past Philadelphia. Kicker Sam Baker faked a punt and passed 58 yards for one Philadelphia touchdown.

Earl Morrall hit two scoring strikes for Baltimore and John Unitas, making his first appearance of the season, threw one. Preston Pearson got the Colts started by returning the opening kickoff 96 yards for a touchdown.

Mel Farr rambled for 138 yards caught six passes for 72 more and scored three touchdowns to spark Detroit over Chicago, whose great Gale Sayers was limited to 38 yards on 12 carries.

New Orleans fashioned its upset of Minnesota on fourth-quarter field goals of 32 and 42 yards by Charlie Durkee. Durkee also scored a touchdown by returning an intercepted pass 92 yards.

St. Louis took advantage of a pair of interference calls to score two touchdowns in the second quarter and then wrapped up its victory over Cleveland with a 33-yard scoring pass from Jim Hart to Dave Williams in the third.

Murray State Takes Southeast; Jewell Wins, Culver Loses

William Jewell and Tarkio scored impressive victories Saturday to take the lead in the Missouri College Athletic Union, while teams in the Missouri Intercollegiate Athletic Association played another round of nonconference games before opening league play this week.

William Jewell pounded Graceland, 30-0, while Tarkio downed Missouri Valley 28-7, in Saturday's action. In the third MCAU game, Central Methodist edged Culver-Stockton 14-6.

Those results left William Jewell and Tarkio with 1-0 conference records. Graceland and Central Methodist both 1-1 and Culver-Stockton and Missouri Valley 0-1.

In games involving MIAA teams, Central Missouri walloped Harding College of Arkansas 35-0; Missouri-Rolla blanked Wisconsin - Milwaukee, 10-0; Southwest Missouri lost to Illinois-Chicago Circle 21-14 SouthSoutheast Missouri bowed to Murray (Ky.) State, 27-14, and Northwest Missouri lost to Lincoln University 26-0.

This Saturday's schedule has Central Missouri at Rolla, Southwest Missouri at Northeast Missouri and Southeast Missouri at Northwest Missouri in the MIAA.

One MCAU game is on tap, sending Graceland to Tarkio, while in nonleague play William Jewell goes to Austin (Tex.) College. Culver-Stockton plays at Illinois College at Jacksonville, Missouri Valley entertains Nebraska Wesleyan, Lincoln hosts Northwood of Michigan, Washington is home against Colorado College and Southern hosts Northwood of Texas.

MEXICO CITY (AP) — The Americans were blanked, breathless but far from beaten after the first day's competition in the 19th Olympic Games.

Naftali Temu of Kenya won the lung-bursting 10,000-meter run—a drama-spiked race that left veteran Ron Clarke unconscious—and Mohammed Nas Iri of Iran set a world record in taking th bantamweight weightlifting title.

Those were the only two gold medals handed out on Sunday and the United States was not a factor in either of them.

But the U.S. track team gave notice that it would, along with Russia, be the dominant force in these troubled Games marred on opening day by a soccer fight, illness and high-altitude drop outs.

Temu, a slight 23-year-old, out-dueled Mamo Wolde of Ethiopia in the stretch and won in the relatively slow time of 29:27.4. Mohammed Gammoudi of Tunisia was third and Juan Martinez of Mexico, who had led most of the way, was fourth.

Clarke, holder of 17 world records but never a winner in the Olympics, was second with three laps to go, but faded back in the 7,347-foot altitude.

It was at that point that Kipchoge Keino of Kenya, another veteran, dropped out. With three laps remaining, he pulled into the infield, lay down for a seconds, then got up and finished.

Tracy Smith of Arcadia, Calif., was the best American, finishing 11th. Billy Mills, who scored a surprise victory for the U.S. squad in the 1964 Olympics, did not qualify to defend his title.

Clarke collapsed, was unconscious and had to be given oxygen after finishing and was suffering from double vivision and lack of concentration.

Nassiri, of Iran, did a backflip on stage after winning the gold in weight-lifting. He bettered the world record in the jerk with 330¾ pounds and ha an Olympic record total of 810 pounds.

Foldi Imre of Hungary took the silver medal and Henryk Trebicki of Tunisia the bronze.

The United States had to be content with a strong showing in some preliminary events, a basketball victory and a 49 flat 400meter hurdle mark by Ron Whitney of Boulder, Colo., bettering the listed world mark.

There was one major disappointment—a fifth-place finish in a heat by Harvard's eightoared crew, which puts them in the repechages.

The United States qualified a full complement of three through two rounds of the 100 meters, led by Charlie Green's wind-aided 10 flat, and put three more in the finals of the shot put topped by Randy Matson's 67-10¼ toss, topping the Olympic record. He made only the one throw.

George Woods of Sikeston, Mo., and Dave Maggard also qualified

Willye White and Martha Watson qualified for the women's long jumps finals, but were back in the pack, Miss White seventh and Miss Watson tied for 10th.

In rowing, the U.S. coxless pairs won their heat, while the coxed pairs and coxed fours also reached the semis after second and third-place finishes, respectively.

A rash of illness was reported on the Harvard eight, perhaps accounting for its poor showing, and Bill Maher, Detroit, a member of the double sculls collapsed after he and John Nunn won their heat. He was taken to the infirmary for rest and is expected to be ready for ther competition.

The U.S. basketball team scored an 81-46 first-round victory over Spain while Russia won its first game, beating Poland 91-50.

The fight occurred at soccer match between Israel and Ghana with two members of the Ghana being escorted off the field. Israel won 5-3.

GIFT TRACTORS

CHANDIGARH, India (AP) Indians living in Britain soon may be helping India's drive to overcome hunger.

Punjab Finance Minister Jagjit Singh Chauhan said the government will allow customs-free gifts of agricultural implements, including tractors, to Punjab peasants from their relatives in Great Britain.

He expressed confidence that the number of gift tractors in the next year would reach 20,000.

Kansas Flying High; Coach Warns Fans

By LEW FERGUSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

Kansas football fans are eyeing this week's national poll ratings and the bowl game scouts are eyeing the Jayhawk football team, but the only thing Coach Pepper Rodgers is eyeing is upset - minded Oklahoma State which invades Lawrence, Kan., Saturday.

"I am not sure we are No. 1, but we do have a good football team," Rodgers told fans after Kansas and Bobby Douglass spurted at the end to defeat Nebraska, 23-13, and establish itself as the team to beat in the 1968 Big Eight Conference grid race.

"I know these bowl people were here, but they were also looking at Nebraska," Rodgers added. "We have a long way to go before thinking about bowls. The only bowl we are in right now is the one at Lawrence."

About six hours after Rodgers made those comments, Oklahoma State upset 11th-rated Houston, 21-17, in Houston's Astrodome to lend emphasis to Rodgers' words of warning to K.U. fans.

Also looming ahead as major hurdles for the Jayhawks are the likes of Missouri, which shredded Colorado for 421 yards rushing in a 27-14 victory Saturday, and defending champion Oklahoma, which lost 26-20 to Texas Saturday but must still be reckoned with because of its explosive offense.

And, upstart Iowa State cannot be forgotten. The young, energetic Cyclones polished off Kansas State, 23-14, Saturday and could give one of the Big Eight's big boys a scare.

Besides the OSU invasion of Lawrence, this week's full slate of Big Eight games has Iowa State at Oklahoma, Kansas State at Colorado and Missouri at Nebraska.

The latter game could be the week's most crucial. If Nebraska beats Missouri at Lincoln, it will boost Kansas and Oklahoma. But if Missouri wins, then the Tigers can declare themselves in on the conference race for good.

Douglass drove Kansas 74 yards in the fourth quarter for a touchdown that put the Hawks ahead 16-13. Then Nebraska gambeled on fourth-and-seven from its own 23, lost the gamble and Kansas drove swiftly for 26 yards and the clinching touchdown.

Rodgers conceded the importance of winning at Lincoln. "Anybody that beats Nebraska at home," he said, "has to have a good ball club. I was just happy to win this one. This is a tough league."

And the Huskers' Bob Devaney responded, "We played about as well as we can play. This was a good Kansas team. Kansas has more poise this year, and is every bit as touch defensively."

Missouri took the ball away from offense-minded Colorado and seldom gave it back to the Buffs all afternoon. The Tigers ran 112 plays to Colorado's 37, and only touchdown passes of 80 and 66 yards by Bob Anderson kept Colorado from getting skunked.

Iowa State capitalized on Kansas State mistakes to even its Big Eight record at 1-1. The Cyclones intercepted six Wildcat passes, thwarting two KState drives in the process, and turned a fumble into a field goal and an interception into a touchdown.

Oklahoma led Texas 20-19 with 2¹ ½ minutes to go after Bob Warmack ran 15 yards for a touchdown. But the Longhorns stormed backand scored with just 39 seconds left to pin the second defeat in three games on the Sooners. Warmack also passed for two touchdowns, but one more Oklahoma's defense showed its vulnerability.

Oklahoma State's Wayne Hallmark ran for two touchdowns, the last one with 56 seconds remaining, to lead OSU's upset of Houston.

GM
MARK OF EXCELLENCE

Ask the kid who owns one.

Some people have a hard time communicating with youth.

Not us.

We just bring on the 1969 Camaro, then tell it like it is.

It is: Restyled inside and out with a new grille, new bumpers, new parking lights, new instrument panel, new steering wheel, new striping, and new colors including Hugger Orange, which is wild.

It is: Full of new features including bigger outlets for the Astro Ventilation, a 210-hp standard V8, and a lock for the steering column, ignition and transmission lever.

It is: Available with a little device that automatically washes your headlights when you hold the windshield washer button in.

It is: Still wider and weightier than the rival sportster we're too polite to name.

You should drive a 1969 Camaro at your Chevrolet dealer's the first chance you get.

Even if you're 42.

EBB HAIR CONSULTANT
IN SIKESTON, MO., TUESDAY
WILL EXPLAIN HAIR PROBLEMS FREE

Louisville, Ky. Oct. 14, 1968, Mr. M. J. Hornick will be back in Sikeston, Mo., again Tuesday, Oct. 15. Now is the time to act on this great opportunity. Every man and woman now loosing hair should take advantage of this FREE CONSULTATION.

GUARANTEED

You will be given a written guarantee on a pro-rated basis from the beginning to the end.

Naturally we could not give you such a guarantee if it didn't work.

CAN'T HELP

Male pattern baldness is the cause of a great majority of cases of baldness and excessive hair loss, for which no method is effective. Ebb Hair Specialists cannot help those who are slick bald after years of gradual hair loss.

But, if you are not already slick bald, how can you be sure what is actually causing your hair loss? Even if baldness seems to "run in the family," this is certainly no proof of the cause of your hair loss.

Many conditions can cause hair loss. No matter which one is causing your hair loss, if you wait until you are slick Bald and your hair roots are dead you are beyond help. So, if you still have hair on top of your head, and would like to stop hair loss and grow more hair . . . now is the time to do something about it before it's too late.

FREE CONSULTATION

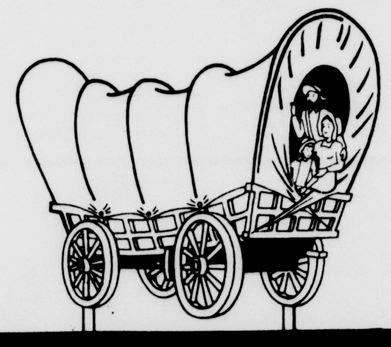

Just take a few minutes of your time on Tuesday, Oct. 15, and go to the Holiday Inn in Sikeston, Mo., between 1 p.m. and 8:30 p.m. and ask the Desk Clerk for M. J. Hornick room number.

There is no charge or obligation . . . all consultations are private, you will not be embarrassed in any way.

T. A. Melton shows he-regrew hair. He did not have male pattern baldness.

MEXICO CITY (AP) — The Americans were blanked, breathless but far from beaten after the first day's competition in the 19th Olympic Games.

There was one major disappointment—a fifth-place finish in a heat by Harvard's eightoared crew, which puts them in the repechages.

The United States qualified a full complement of three through two rounds of the 100 meters, led by Charlie Green's wind-aided 10 flat, and put three more in the finals of the shot put topped by Randy Matson's 67-10 1/4 toss, topping the Olympic record. He made only the one throw.

George Woods of Sikeston, Mo., and Dave Maggard also qualified

Willye White and Martha Watson qualified for the women's long jumps finals, but were back in the pack, Miss White seventh and Miss Watson tied for 10th.

Tom Farrell was second in his 800-meter heat to qualify for the finals, along with Ron Kutschinski.

In rowing, the U.S. coxless pairs won their heat, while the coxed pairs and coxed fours also reached the semis after second and third-place finishes, respectively.

A rash of illness was reported on the Harvard eight, perhaps accounting for its poor showing, and Bill Maher, Detroit, a member of the double sculls collapsed after he and John Nunn won their heat. He was taken to the infirmary for rest and is expected to be ready for ther competition.

The U.S. basketball team scored an 81-46 first-round victory over Spain while Russia won its first game, beating Poland 91-50.

The fight occurred at soccer match between Israel and Ghana with two members of the Ghana being escorted off the field. Israel won 5-3.

Packers Stumbling; Lose Third Game, LA Rams Wins

By ED SCHUYLER JR. Associated Press Sports Writer

Bart Starr hurt himself and the Green Bay Packers by warming up the regular way. Maybe he should have tried Sonny Jurgensen's method.

Starr pulled a muscle in his passing arm while warming up Sunday and then stood on the sidelines as the Packers lost 16l4 to the unbeaten Los Angeles Rams for their third defeat in five National Football League games.

Jurgensen, weakened by a severe cold, slept in a storage room for two hours before the game, then went out and threw two touchdown passes in leading the Washington Redskins to a 16-13 victory over Pittsburgh, 0-5.

The victory lifted the Redskins above the .500 mark at 3-2 and moved them to within a game of the New York Giants in the Capital Division. The Giants, 4-1, fell out of a firstplace tie with Dallas by being upset 24-21 by Atlanta, 1-4, while the Cowboys were trouncing Philadelphia, 0-5, 34-14.

Los Angeles, by boosting its record to 5-0, kept pace in the Coastal Division with the Baltimore Colts who smashed San Francisco 42-14.

In other NFL action, Detroit moved into a tie for the Central Division lead at 3-2 with Minnesota by downing Chicago, 1-4, 28-10 as Minnesota was upset by New Orleans 20-17 and St. Louis beat Cleveland 27-21.

New Orleans, Cleveland and St. Louis share the Century Division lead with 2-3 records.

In the American Football League Sunday, Denver upset the New York Jets 21-13, San Diego surprised Oakland 23-14, Kansas City topped Cincinnati 13-3 and Houston blanked Boston 16-0. Buffalo and Miami tied 14-14 Saturday night.

Bruce Gossett's 27-yard field goal, his third of the game, came four plays after Packer corner back Herb Adderley was called for interference against Jack Snow, giving the Rams a first down on the Green Bay 25.

One of three interceptions against Zeke Bratkowski, Starr's replacement set up Los Angeles' touchdown in the third period. Willie Ellison scored it from the one. Donnie Anderson ran four yards for a Packer score in the second period and Tom Brown put Green Bay ahead 14-13 by returning a punt 52 yards.

Jurgensen threw a 17-yard scoring strike to Jerry Smith in the opening period, and, then with the Redskins trailing Pittsburgh 10-9 in the third period, he escaped being tackled in the end zone to launch a 96-yard drive which he climaxed with a 49-yard pass to Smith.

Atlanta got its upset of the Giants when Lee Calland intercepted a Fran Tarkenton pass in the end zone with 1:16 left. The pass came on a third-andone foot situation on the Atlanta 12. Tarkenton did throw three touchdown passes but they could not offset three Atlanta scores on runs and a field goal by Bob Etter.

Don Meredith threw two touchdown passes as Dallas marched past Philadelphia. Kicker Sam Baker faked a punt and passed 58 yards for one Philadelphia touchdown.

Earl Morrall hit two scoring strikes for Baltimore and John Unitas, making his first appearance of the season, threw one. Preston Pearson got the Colts started by returning the opening kickoff 96 yards for a touchdown.

Mel Farr rambled for 138 yards caught six passes for 72 more and scored three touchdowns to spark Detroit over Chicago, whose great Gale Sayers was limited to 38 yards on 12 carries.

New Orleans fashioned its upset of Minnesota on fourth-quarter field goals of 32 and 42 yards by Charlie Durkee. Durkee also scored a touchdown by returning an intercepted pass 92 yards.

St. Louis took advantage of a pair of interference calls to score two touchdowns in the second quarter and then wrapped up its victory over Cleveland with a 33-yard scoring pass from Jim Hart to Dave Williams in the third.

Murray State Takes Southeast; Jewell Wins, Culver Loses

William Jewell and Tarkio scored impressive victories Saturday to take the lead in the Missouri College Athletic Union, while teams in the Missouri Intercollegiate Athletic Association played another round of nonconference games before opening league play this week.

William Jewell pounded Graceland, 30-0, while Tarkio downed Missouri Valley 28-7, in Saturday's action. In the third MCAU game, Central Methodist edged Culver-Stockton 14-6.

Those results left William Jewell and Tarkio with 1-0 conference records. Graceland and Central Methodist both 1-1 and Culver-Stockton and Missouri Valley 0-1.

In games involving MIAA teams, Central Missouri walloped Harding College of Arkansas 35-0; Missouri-Rolla blanked Wisconsin - Milwaukee, 10-0; Southwest Missouri lost to Illinois-Chicago Circle 21-14 SouthSoutheast Missouri bowed to Murray (Ky.) State, 27-14, and Northwest Missouri lost to Lincoln University 26-0.

Nonconference results saw Arkansas Tech blast Missouri Southern 53-0, and Centre of Kentucky edge Washington U. of St. Louis 6-2.

This Saturday's schedule has Central Missouri at Rolla, Southwest Missouri at Northeast Missouri and Southeast Missouri at Northwest Missouri in the MIAA.

One MCAU game is on tap, sending Graceland to Tarkio, while in nonleague play William Jewell goes to Austin (Tex.) College. Culver-Stockton plays at Illinois College at Jacksonville, Missouri Valley entertains Nebraska Wesleyan, Lincoln hosts Northwood of Michigan, Washington is home against Colorado College and Southern hosts Northwood of Texas.

GIFT TRACTORS

CHANDIGARH, India (AP) Indians living in Britain soon may be helping India's drive to overcome hunger.

Punjab Finance Minister Jagjit Singh Chauhan said the government will allow customs-free gifts of agricultural implements, including tractors, to Punjab peasants from their relatives in Great Britain.

He expressed confidence that the number of gift tractors in the next year would reach 20,000.

Kansas Flying High; Coach Warns Fans

By LEW FERGUSON Associated Press Sports Writer

Kansas football fans are eyeing this week's national poll ratings and the bowl game scouts are eyeing the Jayhawk football team, but the only thing Coach Pepper Rodgers is eyeing is upset - minded Oklahoma State which invades Lawrence, Kan., Saturday.

"I am not sure we are No. 1, but we do have a good football team," Rodgers told fans after Kansas and Bobby Douglass spurted at the end to defeat Nebraska, 23-13, and establish itself as the team to beat in the 1968 Big Eight Conference grid race.

"I know these bowl people were here, but they were also looking at Nebraska," Rodgers added. "We have a long way to go before thinking about bowls. The only bowl we are in right now is the one at Lawrence."

About six hours after Rodgers made those comments, Oklahoma State upset 11th-rated Houston, 21-17, in Houston's Astrodome to lend emphasis to Rodgers' words of warning to K.U. fans.

Also looming ahead as major hurdles for the Jayhawks are the likes of Missouri, which shredded Colorado for 421 yards rushing in a 27-14 victory Saturday, and defending champion Oklahoma, which lost 26-20 to Texas Saturday but must still be reckoned with because of its explosive offense.

And, upstart Iowa State cannot be forgotten. The young, energetic Cyclones polished off Kansas State, 23-14, Saturday and could give one of the Big Eight's big boys a scare.

Besides the OSU invasion of Lawrence, this week's full slate of Big Eight games has Iowa State at Oklahoma, Kansas State at Colorado and Missouri at Nebraska.

The latter game could be the week's most crucial. If Nebraska beats Missouri at Lincoln, it will boost Kansas and Oklahoma. But if Missouri wins, then the Tigers can declare themselves in on the conference race for good.

Douglass drove Kansas 74 yards in the fourth quarter for a touchdown that put the Hawks ahead 16-13. Then Nebraska gambeled on fourth-and-seven from its own 23, lost the gamble and Kansas drove swiftly for 26 yards and the clinching touchdown.

Rodgers conceded the importance of winning at Lincoln. "Anybody that beats Nebraska at home," he said, "has to have a good ball club. I was just happy to win this one. This is a tough league."

And the Huskers' Bob Devaney responded, "We played about as well as we can play. This was a good Kansas team. Kansas has more poise this year, and is every bit as touch defensively."

Missouri took the ball away from offense-minded Colorado and seldom gave it back to the Buffs all afternoon. The Tigers ran 112 plays to Colorado's 37, and only touchdown passes of 80 and 66 yards by Bob Anderson kept Colorado from getting skunked.

Iowa State capitalized on Kansas State mistakes to even its Big Eight record at 1-1. The Cyclones intercepted six Wildcat passes, thwarting two KState drives in the process, and turned a fumble into a field goal and an interception into a touchdown.

Oklahoma led Texas 20-19 with 2 1/2 minutes to go after Bob Warmack ran 15 yards for a touchdown. But the Longhorns stormed backand scored with just 39 seconds left to pin the second defeat in three games on the Sooners. Warmack also passed for two touchdowns, but one more Oklahoma's defense showed its vulnerability.

Oklahoma State's Wayne Hallmark ran for two touchdowns, the last one with 56 seconds remaining, to lead OSU's upset of Houston.

MARK OF EXCELLENCE

Ask the kid who owns one.

Some people have a hard time communicating with youth.

Not us.

We just bring on the 1969 Camaro, then tell it like it is.

It is: Restyled inside and out with a new grille, new bumpers, new parking lights, new instrument panel, new steering wheel, new striping, and new colors including Hugger Orange, which is wild.

It is: Full of new features including bigger outlets for the Astro Ventilation, a 210-hp standard V8, and a lock for the steering column, ignition and transmission lever.

It is: Available with a little device that automatically washes your headlights when you hold the windshield washer button in.

It is: Still wider and weightier than the rival sportster we're too polite to name.

Even if you're 42.

EBB HAIR CONSULTANT IN SIKESTON, MO., TUESDAY WILL EXPLAIN HAIR PROBLEMS FREE

Louisville, Ky. Oct. 14, 1968, Mr. M. J. Hornick will be back in Sikeston, Mo., again Tuesday, Oct. 15. Now is the time to act on this great opportunity. Every man and woman now loosing hair should take advantage of this FREE CONSULTATION.

GUARANTEED

You will be given a written guarantee on a pro-rated basis from the beginning to the end.

Naturally we could not give you such a guarantee if it didn't work.

CAN'T HELP

Male pattern baldness is the cause of a great majority of cases of baldness and excessive hair loss, for which no method is effective. Ebb Hair Specialists cannot help those who are slick bald after years of gradual hair loss.

But, if you are not already slick bald, how can you be sure what is actually causing your hair loss? Even if baldness seems to "run in the family," this is certainly no proof of the cause of your hair loss.

Many conditions can cause hair loss. No matter which one is causing your hair loss, if you wait until you are slick Bald and your hair roots are dead you are beyond help. So, if you still have hair on top of your head, and would like to stop hair loss and grow more hair . . . now is the time to do something about it before it's too late.

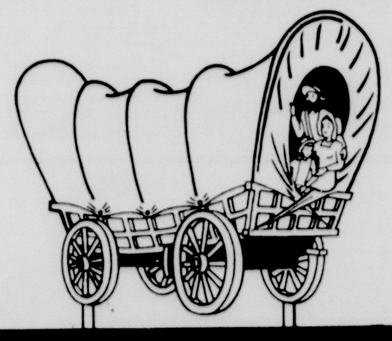

FREE CONSULTATION

Just take a few minutes of your time on Tuesday, Oct. 15, and go to the Holiday Inn in Sikeston, Mo., between 1 p.m. and 8:30 p.m. and ask the Desk Clerk for M. J. Hornick room number.

There is no charge or obligation . . . all consultations are private, you will not be embarrassed in any way.

T. A. Melton shows he regrew hair. He did not have male pattern baldness.

GOP Hopes To Control State House

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — The minority Republicans are predicting they'll take over the Missouri House after next month's general election and should improve their position in the State Senate.

But the Democrats, though less optimistic than they have been in years, still figure they'll preserve their control in both houses of the Missouri General Assembly.

Now the Democrats hold the Senate 23 to 11 with only half the 34 seats up for contest this year. They control the House 107 to 56.

Delton L. Houtchens of Clinton, Democratic state chairman, said late this week "we're not asleep. I'm very confident that the Democrats will hold House control and there'll be no appreciable change in the Senate."

But Rep. R. J. (Bus) King, R-Clayton, minority leader in the House, saw things differently.

"I think we have a real good chance of winning 92 seats in the House"—20 more than the majority needed to control that chamber of the General Assembly.

Without specifying the districts, King said he thought the GOP would add six and possibly eight House seats from St. Louis County, four and possibly six from St. Louis City and four or perhaps six from Jackson County.

Those muscle - building actions in the metropolitan areas, he said, will produce about half the GOP votes needed for House control. In the outstate areas the Republicans are working hard, spurred on by the belief the Nixon - Agnew ticket provides their party with the best chance in Missouri for many years.

The Republicans haven't controlled the Missouri House since the 1953-54 session nor the Senate since 1948. That's a long dry spell and leaves the party's legislators a little shy of experienced men to hold down official positions should the GOP win control.

Furbay on Disabled Sun Airlines Plane

ST. LOUIS — A Cape Girardeau couple was aboard a Sun Airlines plane whose landing gear collapsed on takeoff from Lambert Airfield, Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Willim Fred Stone, were among the eight passengers and two crew members aboard, none of whom were injured.

The propeller driven, twin - engine Beachcraft was attempting takeoff about 3:10 p.m. en route to Cape Girardeau.

Stone, plant manager of Marquette Cement Co. said as the plane attempted to rise, its landing gear collapsed and the craft eventually bellied to a stop. Both props were damaged, he said. The under - carriage was damaged.

A spokesman for Sun Airlines, said that the landing gear's collapse was more an "incident" than anything. He said the pilot of the plane noted that the only sensation was the two props touching the landing surface.

Stone said that he felt most of the passengers, including his wife, had been "shaken up."

Stone also mentioned that no available space could be found for an immediate flight to Cape Girardeau. The World Series championship contest in St. Louis had filled most Thursday flights from Lambert Field. Stone said he and Mrs. Stone returned to Cape Girardeau by car, driven by their son, Wm. Fred Stone, Jr., of Warrenton.

Dr. John Furbay, who has gone 30 times around the world as director of air world education for Trans World Airlines found it more difficult to get to Cape Girardeau Thursday night. Furbay spoke at the Sikeston Chamber of Commerce Man of the Year banquet last Spring.

He arrived late for his appearance before the Cape Girardeau Executives club because the plane he was on had a landing gear failure.

Dr. Furbay was also aboard the Sun Airlines plane taking off from Lambert Field Thursday when the landing gear collapsed. He had to prevail on a friend at Parks Air College to bring him to Cape Girardeau.

Dr. Furbay said he thought at first the plane had blown a tire. He said it skidded on its belly down the runway until it came to a halt.

Actress Refuses To Strip Nude For Play Role

LONDON (AP) — Blonde actress Sarah Atkinson, 23, says she won't strip nude to portray a sex orgy in a new play called "Hank's Night."

She says her director "cannot insist that I take off my bra and panties unless he wants to fire me. I was asked to strip completely but I was quite adamant that I would not."

"I asked Miss Atkinson to remove her underclothes only because that is what the script requires" says the American director, Charles Marowitz.

Cape County Awaits Decision On Ambulances

CAPE GIRARDEAU — Decision on ambulance service in Cape Girardeau county is awaiting action by city officials.

The private ambulance service serving the county, which announced in August it would discontinue emergency calls, has continued past its Sept. 10 cutoff date pending official decision on alternate emergency service.

Clarence W. Suedekum, presiding judge of the county court, said he and Mayor Larry A. Nowak of Jackson are ready to work out plans, but City Manager Paul Frederick of Cape Girardeau said he does not have all the information he needs.

It is believed the three governmental units prefer to subsidize the present service rather than get into the business themselves.

The county court has indicated the next move is up to Cape Girardeau.

USE THE DAILY STANDARD CLASSIFIED ADS

Post Office Abandons Censorship

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Post Office has abandoned censorship as a weapon in the war against smut and is training its guns only on dealers who mail pornography to people who complain.

Main goal of this new strategy, says Chief Postal Inspector Harry B. Montague, is to keep advertisements for smut out of the hands of children and young people.

Montague said in an interview that since 1957, the courts and the Justice Department have hindered the Post Office in its fight against pornography, and battle lines had to be redrawn.

Montague, chief inspector since 1961, now largely relies on individual protests from the public.

He and the 1,080 "Post Office policemen" across the nation have been helped by a six-month old federal antipandering law.

Acting under this statute, the Post Office has received since April nearly 75,000 complaints about material which recipients said they'd received through the mails and which was "erotically arousing or sexually provocative."

The new law makes it possible for individuals to demand that pornography peddlers be ordered to remove their name from any mailing list the peddler owns or controls.

Violations are referred to the Justice Department which can apply to federal courts to force compliance with the law.

Pornography dealers, on the other hand, aren't completely displeased with the measure. It has a reverse effect—weeding out from their mailing lists those who object to pornography and leaving on them the names of persons who may have an interest in ordering from dealer catalogues.

HIGHLIGHTS AND SIDELIGHTS FROM YOUR STATE CAPITOL

SECRETARY OF STATE EXPLAINS TICKET-SPLITTING

JEFFERSON CITY — Missouri voters will choose local, state and national officials from four categories when they go to the polls in the upcoming general election Nov. 5.

Contrary to widespread belief, voters will be able to vote for both a "straight ticket" and cross over party lines and vote for individual candidates of other parties.

At the top of the ballot there are circles in each of the four rows, designating the parties. If the voter wants to vote for all candidates in that party, he merely places an "X" in the circle above the respective party candidates, according to James C. Kirkpatrick, secretary of state, Kirkpatrick is the chief election officer of Missouri.

"This makes it easier for both the voter and the election judges," Kirkpatrick explained.

However, there are individual squares alongside each individual candidate.

The voter may vote the "straight ticket" and then cross over and vote for an individual candidate of another party by marking an "X" in the respective square. That vote then cancels out the vote of the opposing candidate in the "straight ticket" row, Kirkpatrick explained.

Only one candidate is listed in the Independent cateogyr, Charles H. Byford, who si running for the Eighth Congressional District. All other positions list write - in blanks in the Independent column, Kirkpatrick said.

The secretary explained that in the Presidential race, voters elect electors who will represent each Presidential candidate. Since voters choose electors and not the candidates directly in this race it is not really important that the American Party of Missouri's vice presidential candidate is listed as Marvin Griffin instead of the current national candidate, Curtis LeMay. "Our deadline for submitting candidate to be listed on the ballot was Aug. 14," Kirkpatrick said. "Wallace had not chosen his running mate at that time and Griffin had petitioned for the position on the ballot," he continued.

"People who vote for Wallace are in effect voting for those electors who favor Wallace and LeMay for President and Vice - President respectively," Kirkpatrick said.

C. B. Burns Jr., special assistant to the state atrorney general, said he knows of no way a write - in vote for President can be counted.

"Write - in candidates do not have electors to represent them when the electoral college meets after the general election, so how can their votes be counted?" asks Burns rhetorically.

WINTER'S ON THE WAY, AND HIGHWAY DEPT. IS READY

Paul Frevert relaxed in his favorite chair on a mid - winter Saturday afternoon last year. Frevert, a state highway department maintenance area supervisor in Callaway County, turned on his radio to hear the weather forecast. "Rain turning to light snow, little if any accumulation," the announcer said. "High this afternoon 35 to 40. Clearing tomorrow with the high in the 40s."

Feeling there was nothing to worry about, Frevert settled down to watch the football game on tv.

By 2 p.m. the rain was turning to light snow and Frevert's football game was interrupted by a call from the foreman at the Fulton maintenance building, Harry Schmidt. They decided the snow might get worse than was forecast, and decided to make preparations for clearing highways, if that became necessary.

By 3:30 p.m. the light snowfall has become almost a blizzard and Frevert was at his office. He tried to call in all regular crews, but the phones were dead. However, the foremen for Frevert's four crews had been alerted earlier, and by 3:45 all plows were mounted and were working on Interstate 70 and primary roads.

Though the phones were out and none could be called, all the regular crews reported for work instinctively.

By 8 p.m. the temperature had dropped to 30, but traffic was getting lighter and the crews had managed to stay ahead of the snow on the area's major highways, I-70 and U.S. 54.

Then traffic tieups on the two highways slowed snow removal almost to a standstill. Cars and trucks without chains or snowtires stalled on hills. A tractor - trailer jack- knifed on U.S. 54 and tied up traffic for almost an hour. Some motorists left their cars partially parked on the highway. Frevert's crews battled five tieups between 5 p.m. and 7 p.m.

But as the snowfall diminished the crews caught up again. And by 11 p.m. the job was about done. They had cleared --in some cases more than once -- 344 miles of highway in eight hours. The 28 men had worked 655 man hours, used 238 cubic yards of cinders, 35 tons of salt, six motor graders, five loaders and one pickup truck.

John W. Laytham, head of the highway department's division of maintenance and traffic, said "These men do their job with very little grumbling, too."

They may be called out at any time, of course, just as they were on that blustering Saturday last winter.

Snow plow blades have to be replaced frequently. Laytham said he has seen instances where an eight-inch blade has been worn down to three or four inches in just one day of heavy snow removal work.

In most districts the bulk of the equipment used consists of plows mounted on the front of trucks, or motor graders such as those used in road construction work But in the northwestern districts -- when the winters are the hardest -- the highway department keeps a Sno-Go, a large machine that can plow through drifts of eight to ten feet.

If possible, the highway department tried to anticipate snow accumulation and scatter salt on the highways just as the snow starts falling. This prevents it from accumulating and makes the job a lot easier.

The highway department estimates the amount of calcium chloride, salt and cinders that will be needed in each district and starts taking bids so the first deliveries will be made by Nov. 1. The arrangement with the suppliers is flexible enough, however, that in cases of unusual demand, the department can have new deliveries on two or three days' notice.

Snow removal constitutes the second largest budget item in the maintenance and traffic division, Laytham said. A $4 million appropriation was made for the 1969 fiscal year beginning last July 1.

Winter doesn't officially start until Dec. 21, but the first snow will probably fly before that.

Furbay on Disabled Sun Airlines Plane

ST. LOUIS — A Cape Girardeau couple was aboard a Sun Airlines plane whose landing gear collapsed on takeoff from Lambert Airfield, Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Willim Fred Stone, were among the eight passengers and two crew members aboard, none of whom were injured.

The propeller driven, twin - engine Beachcraft was attempting takeoff about 3:10 p.m. en route to Cape Girardeau.

Stone, plant manager of Marquette Cement Co. said as the plane attempted to rise, its landing gear collapsed and the craft eventually bellied to a stop. Both props were damaged, he said. The under - carriage was damaged.

A spokesman for Sun Airlines, said that the landing gear's collapse was more an "incident" than anything. He said the pilot of the plane noted that the only sensation was the two props touching the landing surface.

Stone said that he felt most of the passengers, including his wife, had been "shaken up."

Stone also mentioned that no available space could be found for an immediate flight to Cape Girardeau. The World Series championship contest in St. Louis had filled most Thursday flights from Lambert Field. Stone said he and Mrs. Stone returned to Cape Girardeau by car, driven by their son, Wm. Fred Stone, Jr., of Warrenton.

Dr. John Furbay, who has gone 30 times around the world as director of air world education for Trans World Airlines found it more difficult to get to Cape Girardeau Thursday night. Furbay spoke at the Sikeston Chamber of Commerce Man of the Year banquet last Spring.

He arrived late for his appearance before the Cape Girardeau Executives club because the plane he was on had a landing gear failure.

Dr. Furbay was also aboard the Sun Airlines plane taking off from Lambert Field Thursday when the landing gear collapsed. He had to prevail on a friend at Parks Air College to bring him to Cape Girardeau.

Dr. Furbay said he thought at first the plane had blown a tire. He said it skidded on its belly down the runway until it came to a halt.

Actress Refuses To Strip Nude For Play Role

LONDON (AP) — Blonde actress Sarah Atkinson, 23, says she won't strip nude to portray a sex orgy in a new play called "Hank's Night."

She says her director "cannot insist that I take off my bra and panties unless he wants to fire me. I was asked to strip completely but I was quite adamant that I would not."

"I asked Miss Atkinson to remove her underclothes only because that is what the script requires" says the American director, Charles Marowitz.

Cape County Awaits Decision On Ambulances

CAPE GIRARDEAU — Decision on ambulance service in Cape Girardeau county is awaiting action by city officials.

The private ambulance service serving the county, which announced in August it would discontinue emergency calls, has continued past its Sept. 10 cutoff date pending official decision on alternate emergency service.

Clarence W. Suedekum, presiding judge of the county court, said he and Mayor Larry A. Nowak of Jackson are ready to work out plans, but City Manager Paul Frederick of Cape Girardeau said he does not have all the information he needs.

It is believed the three governmental units prefer to subsidize the present service rather than get into the business themselves.

The county court has indicated the next move is up to Cape Girardeau.

Post Office Abandons Censorship

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Post Office has abandoned censorship as a weapon in the war against smut and is training its guns only on dealers who mail pornography to people who complain.

Main goal of this new strategy, says Chief Postal Inspector Harry B. Montague, is to keep advertisements for smut out of the hands of children and young people.

Montague said in an interview that since 1957, the courts and the Justice Department have hindered the Post Office in its fight against pornography, and battle lines had to be redrawn.

Montague, chief inspector since 1961, now largely relies on individual protests from the public.

He and the 1,089 "Post Office policemen" across the nation have been helped by a six-month old federal antipandering law.

Acting under this statute, the Post Office has received since April nearly 75,000 complaints about material which recipients said they'd received through the mails and which was "erotically arousing or sexually provocative."

The new law makes it possible for individuals to demand that pornography peddlers be ordered to remove their name from any mailing list the peddler owns or controls.

Violations are referred to the Justice Department which can apply to federal courts to force compliance with the law.

Pornography dealers, on the other hand, aren't completely displeased with the measure. It has a reverse effect—weeding out from their mailing lists those who object to pornography and leaving on them the names of persons who may have an interest in ordering from dealer catalogues.

HIGHLIGHTS AND SIDELIGHTS FROM YOUR STATE CAPITOL

SECRETARY OF STATE EXPLAINS TICKET-SPLITTING

JEFFERSON CITY — Missouri voters will choose local, state and national officials from four categories when they go to the polls in the upcoming general election Nov. 5.

Contrary to widespread belief, voters will be able to vote for both a "straight ticket" and cross over party lines and vote for individual candidates of other parties.

At the top of the ballot there are circles in each of the four rows, designating the parties. If the voter wants to vote for all candidates in that party, he merely places an "X" in the circle above the respective party candidates, according to James C. Kirkpatrick, secretary of state, Kirkpatrick is the chief election officer of Missouri.

"This makes it easier for both the voter and the election judges," Kirkpatrick explained.

However, there are individual squares alongside each individual candidate.

The voter may vote the "straight ticket" and then cross over and vote for an individual candidate of another party by marking an "X" in the respective square. That vote then cancels out the vote of the opposing candidate in the "straight ticket" row, Kirkpatrick explained.

Only one candidate is listed in the Independent cateogyr, Charles H. Byford, who si running for the Eighth Congressional District. All other positions list write - in blanks in the Independent column, Kirkpatrick said.

The secretary explained that in the Presidential race, voters elect electors who will represent each Presidential candidate. Since voters choose electors and not the candidates directly in this race it is not really important that the American Party of Missouri's vice presidential candidate is listed as Marvin Griffin instead of the current national candidate, Curtis LeMay. "Our deadline for submitting candidate to be listed on the ballot was Aug. 14," Kirkpatrick said. "Wallace had not chosen his running mate at that time and Griffin had petitioned for the position on the ballot," he continued.

"People who vote for Wallace are in effect voting for those electors who favor Wallace and LeMay for President and Vice - President respectively," Kirkpatrick said.

C. B. Burns Jr., special assistant to the state atrorney general, said he knows of no way a write - in vote for President can be counted.

"Write - in candidates do not have electors to represent them when the electoral college meets after the general election, so how can their votes be counted?" asks Burns rhetorically.

WINTER'S ON THE WAY, AND HIGHWAY DEPT. IS READY

Paul Frevert relaxed in his favorite chair on a mid - winter Saturday afternoon last year. Frevert, a state highway department maintenance area supervisor in Callaway County, turned on his radio to hear the weather forecast. "Rain turning to light snow, little if any accumulation," the announcer said. "High this afternoon 35 to 40. Clearing tomorrow with the high in the 40s."

Feeling there was nothing to worry about, Frevert settled down to watch the football game on tv.

By 2 p.m. the rain was turning to light snow and Frevert's football game was interrupted by a call from the foreman at the Fulton maintenance building, Harry Schmidt. They decided the snow might get worse than was forecast, and decided to make preparations for clearing highways, if that became necessary.

By 3:30 p.m. the light snowfall has become almost a blizzard and Frevert was at his office. He tried to call in all regular crews, but the phones were dead. However, the foremen for Frevert's four crews had been alerted earlier, and by 3:45 all plows were mounted and were working on Interstate 70 and primary roads.

Though the phones were out and none could be called, all the regular crews reported for work instinctively.

By 8 p.m. the temperature had dropped to 30, but traffic was getting lighter and the crews had managed to stay ahead of the snow on the area's major highways, I-70 and U.S. 54.

Then traffic tieups on the two highways slowed snow removal almost to a standstill. Cars and trucks without chains or snowtires stalled on hills. A tractor - trailer jack- knifed on U.S. 54 and tied up traffic for almost an hour. Some motorists left their cars partially parked on the highway. Frevert's crews battled five tieups between 5 p.m. and 7 p.m.

But as the snowfall diminished the crews caught up again. And by 11 p.m. the job was about done. They had cleared --in some cases more than once -- 344 miles of highway in eight hours. The 28 men had worked 655 man hours, used 238 cubic yards of cinders, 35 tons of salt, six motor graders, five loaders and one pickup truck.

John W. Laytham, head of the highway department's division of maintenance and traffic, said "These men do their job with very little grumbling, too."

They may be called out at any time, of course, just as they were on that blustering Saturday last winter.

Snow plow blades have to be replaced frequently. Laytham said he has seen instances where an eight-inch blade has been worn down to three or four inches in just one day of heavy snow removal work.

In most districts the bulk of the equipment used consists of plows mounted on the front of trucks, or motor graders such as those used in road construction work But in the northwestern districts -- when the winters are the hardest -- the highway department keeps a Sno-Go, a large machine that can plow through drifts of eight to ten feet.

If possible, the highway department tried to anticipate snow accumulation and scatter salt on the highways just as the snow starts falling. This prevents it from accumulating and makes the job a lot easier.

The highway department estimates the amount of calcium chloride, salt and cinders that will be needed in each district and starts taking bids so the first deliveries will be made by Nov. 1. The arrangement with the suppliers is flexible enough, however, that in cases of unusual demand, the department can have new deliveries on two or three days' notice.

Snow removal constitutes the second largest budget item in the maintenance and traffic division, Laytham said. A $4 million appropriation was made for the 1969 fiscal year beginning last July 1.

Winter doesn't officially start until Dec. 21, but the first snow will probably fly before that.

Puerto Rico Restores Past

AFTER: Restored 18th century building now houses two museums, Museum of Spanish Colonial Architecture and the Museum of the Puerto Rican Family.

COURTYARD PATIO... Here visitors to the restored Casa del Callejon house in Old San Juan can enjoy a tropical garden view.

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — In every country there is emphasis on preserving the past through architecture and furnishings.

While good contemporary design is not ignored, tradition points up the treasures that were. Much old design, particularly in warm countries where stone and tiles are used looks very contemporary.

A great effort is being made in England, Italy, Germany to preserve old castles and manor houses. Ireland is trying to save its Georgian architecture. Historical societies in the United States have restored some homes down to the last teaspoon.

In San Juan, Puerto Rico, more than 100 houses have been restored. The Institute of Puerto Rican Culture, a government agency has restored interiors and exteriors of many buildings. To interest owners in preserving or restoring properties, inducements to owners include special tax breaks and free counsel services from architects.

Puerto Rico had to dispel the notion among home owners that large-scale restoration would cause real estate prices to drop and that business would be affected.

Old San Juan, the Spanish walled city, has recaptured its Spanish colonial architecture, with electrified gas lamps of wrought iron and streets paved with glazed bricks that were once ship's ballasts. Many of the interiors are furnished with Hispanic antiques. A 300-year old convent is one of its finest hotels.

HOT SUMMERS
1967---1968

The summer of 1968 is registering less urban violence than last year, leading to some cautious hopes that the nation may be past the peak of racial rioting. Justice Department statistics for June and July show significant decreases in both riot deaths and calls for National Guard aid in quelling disturbances. Of the 1968 June-July deaths, half occurred in Cleveland during the black nationalist ambush of police. The statistics do not cover April disorders following the assassination of Martin Luther King, when 42 persons were killed, or the turmoil attending the Democratic convention in Chicago, which was not racial.

Soldiers' Home Houses 2,600

The U.S. Soldiers' Home was established in 1851 as a home for the relief and support of invalid and disabled soldiers of the Army of the United States. Today its modern facilities on the outskirts of Washington, D.C., house 2,600 soldiers and airman.

The Soldiers' Home is for all enlisted men and women and warrant officers of the U.S. Army and Air Force. Persons with 20 years service are eligible for membership. Also, those with disabling injuries may be eligible for membership.

Albert Watson, II
Lt. Gen. (USA Ret.)
Governor, Soldiers' Home

Members of the Soldiers' Home receive lodging, food, medical care and entertainment free. A highly developed recreation program offers craft shops, garden plots, stocked fish ponds and many other pastimes. Members are also encouraged to take full or part-time jobs, both at the Home and in the community.

None of the money used to support the U.S. Soldiers' Home comes from taxes. Funds are provided by deductions from the paychecks of enlisted men and warrant officers (10 cents each month) and court-martial fines.

Applications for admission should be addressed to the U.S. Soldiers' Home, Washington, D.C., 20315. (ANF)

THE CITY OF SIKESTON, MISSOURI
Resolution

A resolution declaring the necessity for the construction of one end and one-half inch hotmix asphaltic pavement on six inch soil cement base with concrete curb and gutters on Murray Lane from existing pavement near Malcolm Street west to Dempster Street, in accordance with plans and specifications in the City of Sikeston, Missouri; stating the nature of the improvement; the estimated cost and providing that payment for all of the improvement shall be made by special tax bills levied and assessed against the abutting property. Be it resolved by the Council of the City of Sikeston, State of Missouri, as follows: SECTION 1: That the Council of the City of Sikeston, Missouri, deems and declares the construction of said Street necessary to the welfare and improvement of the City of Sikeston. SECTION 2: That the nature and scope of the improvement shall consist of furnishing all cost, including labor, materials and transporatation necessary for the complete construction of the improvement. SECTION 3: That the estimated cost of the improvement is $4.80 per lineal foot of abutting property, to be charged against the lots and tracts of land abutting the improvement. SECTION 4: That payment for all of the improvement shall be made by special tax bills evidencing special assessments against the abutting property in the manner specified by the statutes of the State of Missouri and the ordinances of the City of Sikeston, Missouri, because in the opinion of the City Council the General Revenue fund of the City of Sikeston is not in a condition to warrant an expenditure therefrom to pay for the improvement. SECTION 5: That any work performed on construction of the improvement shall be in compliance with the provisions of the prevailing wage laws of the State of Missouri, such prevailing wage rates having been established by the Industrial Commission of Missouri. SECTION 6: That the City Clerk is hereby authorized and directed to furnish a copy of this Resolution to a daily newspaper of general circulation in the City of Sikeston, so that it shall be published for seven consecutive insertions. Read the first, second and third times and passed and approved this 7th day of October, 1968. Approved: Kendall Sikes, Mayor; Attest: John W. Vaughn, Cith Clerk. 11 INC. 17

CONTROVERSIAL commemorative stamp honoring 11th-century Norse explorer Leif Erikson is scheduled for issuance Oct. 9. Although many believe Erikson journeyed to the New World some 500 years before Columbus, others are protesting what they term an affront to America's traditional discoverer.

Puerto Rico Restores Past

AFTER: Restored 18th century building now houses two museums, Museum of Spanish Colonial Architecture and the Museum of the Puerto Rican Family.

COURTYARD PATIO. . .Here visitors to the restored Casa del Callejon house in Old San Juan can enjoy a tropical garden view.

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — In every untry there is emphasis on pre-ving the past through archi-ture and furnishings.

While good contemporary de-n is not ignored, tradition points the treasures that were. Much d design, particularly in warm untries where stone and tiles are ed looks very contemporary.

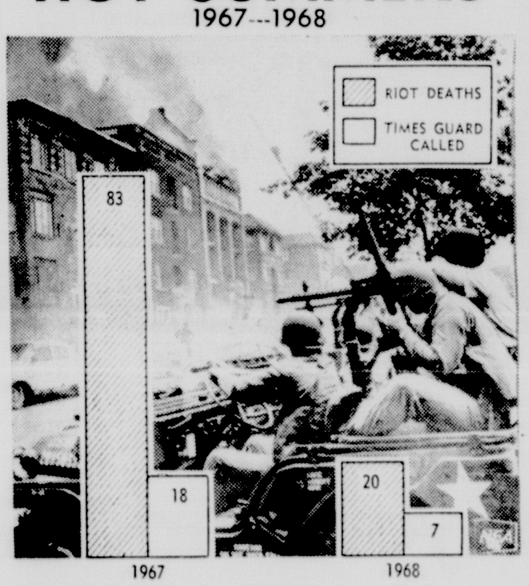

A great effort is being made in ngland, Italy, Germany to pre-rve old castles and manor uses. Ireland is trying to save its eorgian architecture. Historical cieties in the United States have stored some homes down to the st teaspoon.

In San Juan, Puerto Rico, more an 100 houses have been re-stored. The Institute of Puerto Ri-can Culture, a government agency has restored interiors and exteriors of many buildings. To interest owners in preserving or restoring properties, inducements to owners include special tax breaks and free counsel services from architects.

Puerto Rico had to dispel the notion among home owners that large-scale restoration would cause real estate prices to drop and that business would be affected.

Old San Juan, the Spanish walled city, has recaptured its Spanish colonial architecture, with electrified gas lamps of wrought iron and streets paved with glazed bricks that were once ship's ballasts. Many of the interiors are furnished with Hispanic antiques. A 300-year old convent is one of its finest hotels.

HOT SUMMERS
1967---1968

The summer of 1968 is registering less urban violence than last year, leading to some cautious hopes that the nation may be past the peak of racial rioting. Justice Department statistics for June and July show significant decreases in both riot deaths and calls for National Guard aid in quelling disturbances. Of the 1968 June-July deaths, half occurred in Cleveland during the black nationalist ambush of police. The statistics do not cover April disorders following the assassination of Martin Luther King, when 42 persons were killed, or the turmoil attending the Democratic convention in Chicago, which was not racial.

Soldiers' Home Houses 2,600

The U.S. Soldiers' Home was established in 1851 as a home for the relief and support of invalid and disabled soldiers of the Army of the United States. Today its modern facilities on the outskirts of Washington, D.C., house 2,600 soldiers and airman.

The Soldiers' Home is for all enlisted men and women and warrant officers of the U.S. Army and Air Force. Persons with 20 years service are eligible for membership. Also, those with disabling injuries may be eligible for membership.

Albert Watson, II
Lt. Gen. (USA Ret.)
Governor, Soldiers' Home

Members of the Soldiers' Home receive lodging, food, medical care and entertainment free. A highly developed recreation program offers craft shops, garden plots, stocked fish ponds and many other pastimes. Members are also encouraged to take full or part-time jobs, both at the Home and in the community.

None of the money used to support the U.S. Soldiers' Home comes from taxes. Funds are provided by deductions from the paychecks of enlisted men and warrant officers (10 cents each month) and court-martial fines.

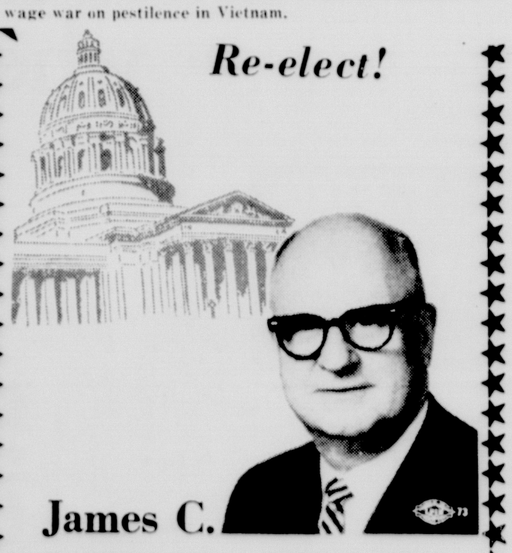

Applications for admission should be addressed to the U.S. Soldiers' Home, Washington, D.C., 20315. (ANF)

PUBLIC NOTICE

TRUSTEE'S SALE

WHEREAS, Tom Sims and Zula E. Sims, his wife, by a certain Deed of Trust dated the 11th day of December, 1965, and recorded in the office of the Recorder of Deeds for the County of Scott and the State of Missouri, in Book 149, Page 185, conveyed to the undersigned Trustee the following described real estate situated in the County of Scott and State of Missouri, to wit:

Lot One (1) Block Eight (8), Frisco Addition to the City of Sikeston, Scott County, Missouri.

Which conveyance was made to the undersigned in trust to secure the payment of a certain Promissory Note in said Deed specified; and

WHEREAS, said note is now past due and remains unpaid default having been made in the payment of said note.

NOW, THEREFORE, at the request of the legal holder of said Note and in pursuance of the conditions of said Deed of Trust, the undersigned Trustee will sell the property above described at public vendue to the highest bidder for cash at the Main front door of the Circuit Court House in the City of Benton, Scott County, Missouri, on October 22, 1968, between the hours of 9:00 A.M., and 5:00 P.M., for the purpose of satisfying said indebtedness and the cost of executing this trust.

THE CITY OF SIKESTON, MISSOURI
Resolution

A resolution declaring the necessity for the construction of one end and one-half inch hotmix asphaltic pavement on six inch soil cement base with concrete curb and gutters on Murray Lane from existing pavement near Malcolm Street west to Dempster Street, in accordance with plans and specifications in the City of Sikeston, Missouri; stating the nature of the improvement; the estimated cost and providing that payment for all of the improvement shall be made by special tax bills levied and assessed against the abutting property. Be it resolved by the Council of the City of Sikeston, State of Missouri, as follows: SECTION 1: That the Council of the City of Sikeston, Missouri, deems and declares the construction of said Street necessary to the welfare and improvement of the City of Sikeston. SECTION 2: That the nature and scope of the improvement shall consist of furnishing all cost, including labor, materials and transporatation necessary for the complete construction of the improvement. SECTION 3: That the estimated cost of the improvement is $4.80 per lineal foot of abutting property, to be charged against the lots and tracts of land abutting the improvement. SECTION 4: That payment for all of the improvement shall be made by special tax bills evidencing special assessments against the abutting property in the manner specified by the statutes of the State of Missouri and the ordinances of the City of Sikeston, Missouri, because in the opinion of the City Council the General Revenue fund of the City of Sikeston is not in a condition to warrant an expenditure therefrom to pay for the improvement. SECTION 5: That any work perfromed on construction of the improvement shall be in compliance with the provisions of the prevailing wage laws of the State of Missouri, such prevailing wage rates having been established by the Industrial Commission of Missouri. SECTION 6: That the City Clerk is hereby authorized and directed to furnish a copy of this Resolution to a daily newspaper of general circulation in the City of Sikeston, so that it shall be published for seven consecutive insertions. Read the first, second and third times and passed and approved this 7th day of October, 1968. Approved: Kendall Sikes, Mayor; Attest: John W. Vaughn, Cith Clerk. 11 INC. 17

The Prayer ### from The Upper Room

Let us offer the sacrifice of praise to God continually. (Hebrews 13:15)

PRAYER: Our heavenly Father, we thank Thee for all Thy blessings that are so continually abundant. Thou hast never failed us and never will. In humbleness of spirit we offer Thee the gratitude of grateful hearts, in Jesus' name. Amen.

Don't waste those green tomatoes. Either turn them into green tomato pickles, dip them in batter and fry them to eat, or pick them, wrap each in a separate piece of newspaper, and place them on a table in a place that is dark and warm. They'll gradually ripen, especially if they showed even a tiny bit of red when picked.

Flowering Youth Has Its Say

Dear Ann Landers: I am only 15 and haven't formed solid ideas about a lot of things. One thing I am really undecided about is the hippies.

It seems to me they stand for love and peace. Is that bad? In these times when there is so much unrest in the world -- so much hate and killing and anger -- isn't love a good thing to talk up? What's bad about people handing each other flowers?

Why are some people against the hippies? Maybe the hippies are the answer to the world's problems. I don't think I've ever seen anything about hippies in your column. Please tell me what you think about them. -- WILLING TO LEARN.

Dear Willing: I'm for peace and love, and I like flowers as well as the next person, but I also believe in work, soap and water, reality and doing something constructive to make this a better world. Lying in the grass in groups, shunning employment, smoking pot and freaking out, solves no problems.

The hippies have nothing to offer but criticism. They are cop-outs and moochers. What they call love is often a temporary feeling of euphoria produced by drugs. At the beginning of the hippie movement many sincere people were impressed with their idealism and applauded their protest against the ugliness of the world. But as time passed, it became clear that the true idealists were grossly outnumbered by the phonies, the hop heads and the cowards who flocked to the scene.

Dear Ann Landers: In July of last year our church organist began to put on weight. Two months later she quit her job, left town and the word got around that she had given birth to a child.

This woman is no teen-ager. She is nearly 30 and old enough to know better than to get into a jam like that. She gave the baby away like it was a cat or a dog.

Now the grand lady of the manor has returned to the city thin as a rail and her hair is a different color. She smiles a lot and acts as if she has had a six-month vacation in Switzerland. Everyone is supposed to accept her, ask no questions and play dumb.

Why should she get away with such immoral behavior? Now it is the townspeople who are on trial. It suddenly becomes OUR responsibility to be gracious and overlook everything.

Don't tell me to mind my own business. Do you have an answer? --SUNFLOWER

Dear Sun: What would you like the woman to do -- wear a scarlet letter and hold a question - and - answer forum in the main lobby of the Post Office every morning between 10 a.m. and noon?

Instead of giving her credit for holding her head up, you seem annoyed that her unfortunate experience didn't crush her spirit and wreck her life. People like you give me indigestion.

Confidential to Thumbs Up Or Down: I'd say thumbs sideways on this one. Legally you can do it -- but morally and taste - wise you'd be a rotten egg.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self - addressed envelope.

The body of John N. Ross, who died in an army hospital at Wilbur Wright Aviation Field, Dayton, Ohio last Friday, following an attack of pneumonia, was interred in the Sikeston City Cemetery Monday afternoon.

The body of Sam Walker, who died of pneumonia at Camp Dodge, Iowa, was sent to his home at Morehouse, where a funeral service was held on Wednesday. The bodies of Peter Austil and Lester Warren, who died of pneumonia at Camp McArthur, Waco, Tex., will arrive at their homes in Morehouse today for burial. Morehouse relatives of Willie Blaylock received word last Saturday that he had been wounded and was in a hospital in France.

T. B. Swaim and family, who some weeks ago moved to Indiana and later to St. Charles, Mo., have returned to their former home at Oran, where Mr. Swaim has bought a barber shop. D. B. Nall and family, who moved from Oran to Memphis, Tenn., about a month ago, have also returned to Oran.

J. A. Sutterfield, Sikeston architect, was appointed fund drive chairman of the Scott County Chapter of the Red Cross at an executive board meeting held at the Red Cross office Tuesday afternoon.

Tentative sketches for a new three story addition to the Baptist Church were turned over to the architect by the church building committee, according to J. J. Reiss, chairman of the group. The addition will be a wing added to the west side of the present building approximately 64 feet long on the South Street side of the church. It will be about 40 feet wide.

Mrs. Marshall Jones, grandmother of Earle Stout of Sikeston, died Monday in Carbondale, Ill.

POLLY'S POINTERS
Keeps Patient's Food Hot On an Electric Skillet

By POLLY CRAMER

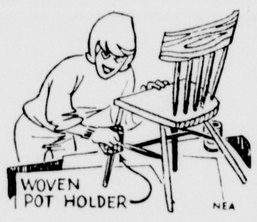

DEAR POLLY—I am a nurse who uses an electric skillet to keep my patient's meals hot. I take it to the bedroom with the dishes of food in it and serve from it so the extras will stay hot. I put plates on the bottom so they also stay hot. Those things that should be kept warm over hot water (like eggs) stand on a rack out of the water.

When using hot compresses, heating hot salt bags, sterilizing bandages, etc., the electric skillet is also great. The water can be kept at a uniform heat.—CECILIA

Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY—Can the water gathered from a dehumidifier home unit be used safely in a steam iron? I know one can buy both distilled water and demineralized water, but do they both work effectively? Does water become demineralized during the distilling process?—MRS. W. E. M.

DEAR POLLY—I find a woven pot holder most useful when applying varnish to small surfaces, such as table legs, chair rounds, etc. The varnish does not drip, can be applied quickly and evenly and there will be no lint left on the furniture.—OPAL

DEAR POLLY — I agree with Julie that your column should be a wonderful place to communicate with manufacturers. I wish clothing and shoe companies would mark sizes indelibly. Often even the brand name has disappeared by the time a replacement is needed. If the product has been satisfactory we would like to purchase the same brand again. How can we when the label has faded or worn off? It would be so much easier if one could tell the size of the garment the child is growing out of. Thank you for the column.—MRS. E. F. M.

DEAR POLLY—Baby does not seem nearly so wiggly and fussy when being dressed if you turn him on his stomach while doing it.—LINDA

Gun Registration Law Shoots down Irate Hunter

By Jack Strauss, LL.B.

A state gun control law was enacted that required identification cards for anyone who wanted to purchase a rifle or a shotgun. Taking exception to this law was Dead-eye Dick and a group of his fellow sharp-shooters. Whether they were small game hunters or big game hunters, they all agreed that the law infringed upon their rights and went to court to have the law declared illegal.

"The Constitution gives us the right to bear arms," they argued, "and a State cannot take away that right by creating so much delay, red tape and inconvenience so as to frustrate a person's attempt to buy a rifle."

"While it may require the filling out of a few blanks," answered the state's attorney, "It may help turn up some kooks who shouldn't have a frifle. Duck the blanks and you may have to duck some bullets."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you invalidate the gun control law?

This is how the judge ruled: NO! The judge held that under a state's police power, the common good takes precedence over private rights; that our basic freedoms may be curtailed if sufficient reason exists therefore. From the day we are born, noted the judge, when a birth certificate is filed, until the day we die, when official certificatiion thereof must be recorded, we spend the intervening years obtaining one different type of license after another. These burdens we assume for the good that flows therefrom. There is no basic difference in a requirement to obtain a gun purchaser's identification card.

Four Attend Democratic Meeting

ADVANCE — Going to Kansas City to attend the annual Women's Democratic convention Monday, were Mrs. Bill Rhodes, Mrs. Leo Hitt, Mrs. Jerald Bird and Mrs. J. T. Holder.

Advance United Methodist Church Women's Society of Christian Service hostess the Cape Girardeau - Farmington District, today. The speaker of the morning was the Rev. Melvin West, who has served as area director of church and community in Missouri since 1965 and has directed and developed Lake of the Ozarks parish summer ministry. Two hundred women from the district attended.

The Advance chapter of Order of the Eastern Star held its regular meeting Tuesday with the worthy matron and worthy patron, Mr. and Mrs. Wilburn Raber, presiding. Meeting was opened in regular form and the Pledge of Allegiance to the Flag was given and all sang the Star Spangled Banner."

Plans were made to attend the annual session of Grand Chapter of Missouri OES in St. Louis.

A gift was presented to the worthy matron in honor of her birthday and all extended birthday greetings. Special tribute was given Mrs. Glen Bidewell on her year serving the 50th district as district deputy grand matron. Mrs. Bidewell and Mrs. Raber expressed their thanks and appreciation to all committees that helped to make the 50th anniversary of the chapter a success. Congratulations were read and gifts were on display.

The meeting was closed in regular form and all retired to the dining room where the birthday cake and coffee were served.

Mr. Mac E. Davis and his sister, Mrs. Elmo Masters of Belleville, Ill., flew to Elmonte, Calif., Sunday. They were called there because of the death of their brother - in - law, Claude Lee.

Tuesday, the Stoddard County Baptist Association of the Women's Missionary Union was held at the Advance First Baptist Church.

Mrs. Ray White, Bernie, the associational president, called the meeting to worship. The theme was "Christ the Only Hope" and the hymn "O Zion Haste" was sung.

After the invocation by Mrs. H. M. Hill, the Rev. Charles L. Norris of dexter spoke on "Crusade of the Americans." A special feature was presented by the Pleasant Valley Church. The Advance WMU served lunch at noon.

BISHOP TAKES PULPIT

LOS ANGELES (AP) In an action without precedent in Methodism, Bishop Gerald Kennedy has decided to become a parish pastor, while at the same time continuing to head the Los Angeles church area.

"I believe in the local church more than ever," he said, in announcing that he will become senior minister of First United Methodist Church, Pasadena, on Dec. 8. "I believe that if Christianity is to win it will be on that front. It seems to me that a bishop or any other bureaucrat needs to participate responsibly where the action is."

Court Deprives Bride of Living With Husband

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) You can't live with your new husband for a year, the judges told a young beautician who pleaded guilty to possession of marijuana. But if things work out, they added, you "may live happily ever after."

This was the crux of a ruling Thursday by California's 3rd District Court of Appeal in the case of 20-year-old Anetta Peeler of Oroville.

She was granted probation in May. Between her plea and the granting of probation, she married James Peeler.

Peeler, 23, a student at Chico State College, later was arrested on charges of possessing, selling or maintaining a place for the sale of marijuana. His trial is pending.

In a second hearing on her probation, a local court amended its probation order, saying the Peelers couldn't live together for the first year of her three-year probation period.

Mrs. Peeler appealed.

A study of the lower court's decision, the judges said, brings up one fact: Mrs. Peeler "is consorting with and proposes now to live with a person presently charged with involvement in the narcotics traffic much more seriously than she is thought to be."

They held out hope that Peeler might be acquitted and be able to show "that he is a fit consort", and that Mrs. Peeler might develop "a mature sense of responsibility" so the court might again modify the terms of her probation so she "and her husband may live happily ever after."

NO MONKEY BUSINESS

MADRAS, India (AP) — Export of monkeys to foreign countries is a "blasphemy" on the Hindu religion, which worships the monkey-faced God Hanuman, K. Vinayakam told the Madras State Assembly.

But a Socialist member, S. Balasubramaniam, said monkeys should be exported as they destroy badly needed crops.

A third member said the argument was futile since the federal government has banned export of monkeys.

Flowering Youth Has Its Say

Dear Ann Landers: I am only 15 and haven't formed solid ideas about a lot of things. One thing I am really undecided about is the hippies.

It seems to me they stand for love and peace. Is that bad? In these times when there is so much unrest in the world -- so much hate and killing and anger -- isn't love a good thing to talk up? What's bad about people handing each other flowers?

Why are some people against the hippies? Maybe the hippies are the answer to the world's problems. I don't think I've ever seen anything about hippies in your column. Please tell me what you think about them. -- WILLING TO LEARN.

Dear Willing: I'm for peace and love, and I like flowers as well as the next person, but I also believe in work, soap and water, reality and doing something constructive to make this a better world. Lying in the grass in groups, shunning employment, smoking pot and freaking out, solves no problems.

The hippies have nothing to offer but criticism. They are cop-outs and moochers. What they call love is often a temporary feeling of euphoria produced by drugs. At the beginning of the hippie movement many sincere people were impressed with their idealism and applauded their protest against the ugliness of the world. But as time passed, it became clear that the true idealists were grossly outnumbered by the phonies, the hop heads and the cowards who flocked to the scene.

Dear Ann Landers: In July of last year our church organist began to put on weight. Two months later she quit her job, left town and the word got around that she had given birth to a child.

This woman is no teen-ager. She is nearly 30 and old enough to know better than to get into a jam like that. She gave the baby away like it was a cat or a dog.

Now the grand lady of the manor has returned to the city thin as a rail and her hair is a different color. She smiles a lot and acts as if she has had a six-month vacation in Switzerland. Everyone is supposed to accept her, ask no questions and play dumb.

Why should she get away with such immoral behavior? Now it is the townspeople who are on trial. It suddenly becomes OUR responsibility to be gracious and overlook everything.

Don't tell me to mind my own business. Do you have an answer? --SUNFLOWER

Dear Sun: What would you like the woman to do -- wear a scarlet letter and hold a question - and - answer forum in the main lobby of the Post Office every morning between 10 a.m. and noon?

Instead of giving her credit for holding her head up, you seem annoyed that her unfortunate experience didn't crush her spirit and wreck her life. People like you give me indigestion.

Confidential to Thumbs Up Or Down: I'd say thumbs sideways on this one. Legally you can do it -- but morally and taste - wise you'd be a rotten egg.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self - addressed envelope.

POLLY'S POINTERS
Keeps Patient's Food Hot On an Electric Skillet

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY—I am a nurse who uses an electric skillet to keep my patient's meals hot. I take it to the bedroom with the dishes of food in it and serve from it so the extras will stay hot. I put plates on the bottom so they also stay hot. Those things that should be kept warm over hot water (like eggs) stand on a rack out of the water.

When using hot compresses, heating hot salt bags, sterilizing bandages, etc., the electric skillet is also great. The water can be kept at a uniform heat.—CECILIA

Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY—Can the water gathered from a dehumidifier home unit be used safely in a steam iron? I know one can buy both distilled water and demineralized water, but do they both work effectively? Does water become demineralized during the distilling process?—MRS. W. E. M.

DEAR POLLY—I find a woven pot holder most useful when applying varnish to small surfaces, such as table legs, chair rounds, etc. The varnish does not drip, can be applied quickly and evenly and there will be no lint left on the furniture.—OPAL

DEAR POLLY—I agree with Julie that your column should be a wonderful place to communicate with manufacturers. I wish clothing and shoe companies would mark sizes indelibly. Often even the brand name has disappeared by the time a replacement is needed. If the product has been satisfactory we would like to purchase the same brand again. How can we when the label has faded or worn off? It would be so much easier if one could tell the size of the garment the child is growing out of. Thank you for the column.—MRS. E. F. M.

DEAR POLLY—Baby does not seem nearly so wiggily and fussy when being dressed if you turn him on his stomach while doing it.—LINDA

Gun Registration Law Shoots down Irate Hunter

By Jack Strauss, LL.B.

A state gun control law was enacted that required identification cards for anyone who wanted to purchase a rifle or a shotgun. Taking exception to this law was Dead-eye Dick and a group of his fellow sharp-shooters. Whether they were small game hunters or big game hunters, they all agreed that the law infringed upon their rights and went to court to have the law declared illegal.

"The Constitution gives us the right to bear arms," they argued, "and a State cannot take away that right by creating so much delay, red tape and inconvenience so as to frustrate a person's attempt to buy a rifle."

"While it may require the filling out of a few blanks," answered the state's attorney, "It may help turn up some kooks who shouldn't have a frifle. Duck the blanks and you may have to duck some bullets."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you invalidate the gun control law?

This is how the judge ruled: NO! The judge held that under a state's police power, the common good takes precedence over private rights; that our basic freedoms may be curtailed if sufficient reason exists therefore. From the day we are born, noted the judge, when a birth certificate is filed, until the day we die, when official certificatiion thereof must be recorded, we spend the intervening years obtaining one different type of license after another. These burdens we assume for the good that flows therefrom. There is no basic difference in a requirement to obtain a gun purchaser's identification card.

Four Attend Democratic Meeting

ADVANCE — Going to Kansas City to attend the annual Women's Democratic convention Monday, were Mrs. Bill Rhodes, Mrs. Leo Hitt, Mrs. Jerald Bird and Mrs. J. T. Holder.

Advance United Methodist Church Women's Society of Christian Service hostess the Cape Girardeau - Farmington District, today. The speaker of the morning was the Rev. Melvin West, who has served as area director of church and community in Missouri since 1965 and has directed and developed Lake of the Ozarks parish summer ministry. Two hundred women from the district attended.

The Advance chapter of Order of the Eastern Star held its regular meeting Tuesday with the worthy matron and worthy patron, Mr. and Mrs. Wilburn Raber, presiding. Meeting was opened in regular form and the Pledge of Allegiance to the Flag was given and all sang the Star Spangled Banner."

Plans were made to attend the annual session of Grand Chapter of Missouri OES in St. Louis.

A gift was presented to the worthy matron in honor of her birthday and all extended birthday greetings. Special tribute was given Mrs. Glen Bidewell on her year serving the 50th district as district deputy grand matron. Mrs. Bidewell and Mrs. Raber expressed their thanks and appreciation to all committees that helped to make the 50th anniversary of the chapter a success. Congratulations were read and gifts were on display.

The meeting was closed in regular form and all retired to the dining room where the birthday cake and coffee were served.

Mr. Mac E. Davis and his sister, Mrs. Elmo Masters of Belleveille, Ill., flew to Elmonte, Calif., Sunday. They were called there because of the death of their brother - in - law, Claude Lee.

Tuesday, the Stoddard County Baptist Association of the Women's Missionary Union was held at the Advance First Baptist Church.

Mrs. Ray White, Bernie, the associational president, called the meeting to worship. The theme was "Christ the Only Hope" and the hymn "O Zion Haste" was sung.

After the invocation by Mrs. H. M. Hill, the Rev. Charles L. Norris of dexter spoke on "Crusade of the Americans." A special feature was presented by the Pleasant Valley Church. The Advance WMU served lunch at noon.

BISHOP TAKES PULPIT

LOS ANGELES (AP) In an action without precedent in Methodism, Bishop Gerald Kennedy has decided to become a parish pastor, while at the same time continuing to head the Los Angeles church area.

"I believe in the local church more than ever," he said, in announcing that he will become senior minister of First United Methodist Church, Pasadena, on Dec. 8. "I believe that if Christianity is to win it will be on that front. It seems to me that a bishop or any other bureaucrat needs to participate responsibly where the action is."

Court Deprives Bride of Living With Husband

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) You can't live with your new husband for a year, the judges told a young beautician who pleaded guilty to possession of marijuana. But if things work out, they added, you "may live happily ever after."

This was the crux of a ruling Thursday by California's 3rd District Court of Appeal in the case of 20-year-old Anetta Peeler of Oroville.

She was granted probation in May. Between her plea and the granting of probation, she married James Peeler.

Peeler, 23, a student at Chico State College, later was arrested on charges of possessing, selling or maintaining a place for the sale of marijuana. His trial is pending.

In a second hearing on her probation, a local court amended its probation order, saying the Peelers couldn't live together for the first year of her three-year probation period.

Mrs. Peeler appealed.

A study of the lower court's decision, the judges said, brings up one fact: Mrs. Peeler "is consorting with and proposes now to live with a person presently charged with involvement in the narcotics traffic much more seriously than she is thought to be."

They held out hope that Peeler might be acquitted and be able to show "that he is a fit consort", and that Mrs. Peeler might develop "a mature sense of responsibility" so the court might again modify the terms of her probation so she "and her husband may live happily ever after."

NO MONKEY BUSINESS

MADRAS, India (AP) — Export of monkeys to foreign countries is a "blasphemy" on the Hindu religion, which worships the monkey-faced God Hanuman, K. Vinayakam told the Madras State Assembly.

But a Socialist member, S. Balasubramaniam, said monkeys should be exported as they destroy badly needed crops.

A third member said the argument was futile since the federal government has banned export of monkeys.

Today In U.S. History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Monday, Oct. 14, the 288th day of 1968. There are 78 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1644, the founder of Pennsylvania, William Penn, was born in London.

In 1890, the 34th president of the United States, Dwight D. Eisenhower was born in Denison, Tex.

In 1933, Germany announced it would withdraw from the League of Nations.

In 1939, in World War II, it was disclosed that a German submarine had sunk the British battleship "Royal Oak," killing 800.

In 1944, British and Greek troops liberated Athens from German occupation forces.

In 1947, U.S. Air Force Capt. Charles E. Yeager became the first person to fly faster than the speed of sound. The flight was made in a rocket-powered research airplane at Muroc Air Base in California.

Ten years ago — The threat of a civil war in Lebanon abated as a compromise cabinet was formed, evenly divided between Christians and Moslems.

One year ago — U.S. bombers hit a large shipyard and other new targets in the area of Haiphong, North Vietnam.

Today In U.S. History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Monday, Oct. 14, the 288th day of 1968. There are 78 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1644, the founder of Pennsylvania, William Penn, was born in London.

In 1890, the 34th president of the United States, Dwight D. Eisenhower was born in Denison, Tex.

In 1933, Germany announced it would withdraw from the League of Nations.

In 1939, in World War II, it was disclosed that a German submarine had sunk the British battleship "Royal Oak," killing 800.

In 1944, British and Greek troops liberated Athens from German occupation forces.

In 1947, U.S. Air Force Capt. Charles E. Yeager became the first person to fly faster than the speed of sound. The flight was made in a rocket-powered research airplane at Muroc Air Base in California.

Ten years ago — The threat of a civil war in Lebanon abated as a compromise cabinet was formed, evenly divided between Christians and Moslems.

One year ago — U.S. bombers hit a large shipyard and other new targets in the area of Haiphong, North Vietnam.

Ike Celebrates 78th Birthday

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower turned 78 today, celebrating along with a nation that will honor him throughout the week.

The five-star general, still a patient at the Army's Walter Reed General Hospital, has been rated as having made a "miraculous" comeback so far from a mid-August heart attack —perhaps the worst of seven he's suffered since 1955.

The word "miraculous" was used recently by Lt. Gen. Leonard D. Heaton, the army surgeon general, to describe Eisenhower's recovery.

There was no advance word on any birthday celebration plans at the hospital itself where Eisenhower, for some time now, has been allowed to sit up in a chair for about a half hour several times a day.

But, in effect, the country began celebrating the old warrior's birthday Sunday—the beginning of "America's Salute To Eisenhower Week," as proclaimed by President Johnson Sept. 14.

President Johnson, on the day he issued the proclamation, said America "has always spoken with one voice and affection for a beloved leader" Eisenhower.

"Dwight David Eisenhower," he said, "led us bravely in war. He served us devotedly and well in peace.

"Always he committed the gifts of his heart and the wisdom of his leadership to the strength of America's unity. Throughout his lifetime of duty, he has shown us the qualities that we admire most in our fellow man, the qualities of greatness that run deep in the spirit and the history of America— honor, courage, compassion, integrity."

Johnson paid another tribute to Eisenhower Sunday when he signed a bill—"on behalf of a grateful nation" authorizing up to $5 million in matching grants to the Eisenhower College in Seneca Falls, N.Y.

LeMay Set To Leave For Vietnam

WASHINGTON (AP) — Retired Gen. Curtis E. LeMay, who declared over the weekend he favors resumption of fullscale bombing of North Vietnam, leaves tonight on a four-day war-zone inspection trip for presidential candidate George C. Wallace.

LeMay, after addressing the Women's National Press Club, will go to San Francisco first, leaving from there about 10 p.m. for the 23-hour flight to Saigon.

He is due to return Saturday in time to brief Wallace before the American Independent party candidate makes a nationwide television appearance the following day.

The former Air Force chief of staff, whom Wallace tapped as his running mate nearly two weeks ago, said Sunday he "very definitely" favors resuming bombing of North Vietnam on the scale it was done before March 31.

President Johnson restricted the bombing on that date to the Southern panhandle area of North Vietnam.

"We've set up all these sanctuaries ... thereby telling the enemy that they're safe under those circumstances," LeMay said.

He also said he thinks the Port of Haiphong should be closed, but he left it up to the American military commander in South Vietnam how to do it.

LeMay plans to talk to American commanders in the war zone during his trip and also plans to question fighting men in the ranks to see how they feel about the war.

Breakin at Poplar Bluff

POPLAR BLUFF - Don's Discount Store on Highway 67 south of here was broken into Sunday night. Taken were an undertermined number of guns and a small amount of money from the cash register.

Boy Scouts Find Body

ARCADIA - A group of Boy Scouts from here, while hiking on a country road eight miles south of here, discovered the body of Ramy Brent Deschner, 62, Hermann, in a parked car Friday at 1 p.m.

A rubber hose was connected from the exhaust pipe through the car door, resulting in death from carbon monoxide, the highway patrol reported.

It was not learned how long the car had been parked on the road.

The body was taken to White Funeral Home in Ironton.

Groups Endorse Annexation at Portageville

PORTAGEVILLE — Citizens are urged to get out and vote Tuesday for the proposed annexation to the city.

Included in the 160 acres to be annexed are approximately 80 acres of additional industrial and business sites.

A get- out the vote campaign will be conducted by the Chamber of Commerce, Jaycees, Garden Club and Iota Rho chapter of Beta Sigma Phi, who have endorsed the annexation.

Voters needing transportation to the polls or desiring information about the proposed annexation may contact any member of these organizations.

The sorority and Garden Club began an intensive telephone campaign at noon Monday to get out the vote.

Citizens are reminded that the vote Tuesday is for the annexation only and will have no effect on taxes.

Polls will be open from 6 a.m. to 7 p.m. in Ward 1 at the city hall, 301 East Main, and in Ward 2 at the New Madrid County Library, 122 East Main.

But, in effect, the country began celebrating the old warrior's birthday Sunday—the beginning of "America's Salute To Eisenhower Week," as proclaimed by President Johnson Sept. 14.

President Johnson, on the day he issued the proclamation, said America "has always spoken with one voice and affection for a beloved leader"—Eisenhower.

"Dwight David Eisenhower," he said, "led us bravely in war. He served us devotedly and well in peace.

"Always he committed the gifts of his heart and the wisdom of his leadership to the strength of America's unity. Throughout his lifetime of duty, he has shown us the qualities that we admire most in our fellow man, the qualities of greatness that run deep in the spirit and the history of America— honor, courage, compassion, integrity."

Johnson paid another tribute to Eisenhower Sunday when he signed a bill—"on behalf of a grateful nation"—authorizing up to $5 million in matching grants to Eisenhower College in Seneca Falls, N.Y.

LeMay Set To Leave For Vietnam

WASHINGTON (AP) — Retired Gen. Curtis E. LeMay, who declared over the weekend he favors resumption of fullscale bombing of North Vietnam, leaves tonight on a four-day war-zone inspection trip for presidential candidate George C. Wallace.

LeMay, after addressing the Women's National Press Club, will go to San Francisco first, leaving from there about 10 p.m. for the 23-hour flight to Saigon.

He is due to return Saturday in time to brief Wallace before the American Independent party candidate makes a nationwide television appearance the following day.

The former Air Force chief of staff, whom Wallace tapped as his running mate nearly two weeks ago, said Sunday he "very definitely" favors resuming bombing of North Vietnam on the scale it was done before March 31.

President Johnson restricted the bombing on that date to the Southern panhandle area of North Vietnam.

"We've set up all these sanctuaries ... thereby telling the enemy that they're safe under those circumstances," LeMay said.

He also said he thinks the Port of Haiphong should be closed, but he left it up to the American military commander in South Vietnam how to do it.

LeMay plans to talk to American commanders in the war zone during his trip and also plans to question fighting men in the ranks to see how they feel about the war.

Boy Scouts Find Body

ARCADIA - A group of Boy Scouts from here, while hiking on a country road eight miles south of here, discovered the body of Ramy Brent Deschner, 62, Hermann, in a parked car Friday at 1 p.m.

A rubber hose was connected from the exhaust pipe through the car door, resulting in death from carbon monoxide, the highway patrol reported.

It was not learned how long the car had been parked on the road.

The body was taken to White Funeral Home in Ironton.

Groups Endorse Annexation at Portageville

PORTAGEVILLE — Citizens are urged to get out and vote Tuesday for the proposed annexation to the city.

Included in the 160 acres to be annexed are approximately 80 acres of additional industrial and business sites.

A get- out the vote campaign will be conducted by the Chamber of Commerce, Jaycees, Garden Club and Iota Rho chapter of Beta Sigma Phi, who have endorsed the annexation.

Voters needing transportation to the polls or desiring information about the proposed annexation may contact any member of these organizations.

The sorority and Garden Club began an intensive telephone campaign at noon Monday to get out the vote.

Citizens are reminded that the vote Tuesday is for the annexation only and will have no effect on taxes.

Polls will be open from 6 a.m. to 7 p.m. in Ward 1 at the city hall, 301 East Main, and in Ward 2 at the New Madrid County Library, 122 East Main.
